Second and revised Edition — January 1, 1960

Compiled, published and distributed to male Klumphs with families and to a few others

BY RICHARD AMIDON KLUMPH

General Explanation and Notes

This second and revised edition supersedes my first edition of November 1957 "The American Klumph Family" and my mimeographed supplement of December 1958. The first edition was little more than galley proofs of the genealogical data I had accumulated up to November 1957. It was a genealogy in processes, issued as a safety measure so that if I were unable to complete it, at least you would have that and my effort would not be wasted. This edition is the finished product, that is, I believe it to be as complete as it will ever be. Of course anything that happens after January 1, 1960 will not be contained in this edition.

Since the first edition I have been able to complete the very extensive research in many states and in the federal records in Washington, D.C. That research has resulted in a great deal more material. Also a few changes have been made. I have solved the "Gustavus mystery" and K718 that is contained in the brief biography of our ancestral father. The previous report that there were people with the Klumph name in Germany today has proved false. It is now practically conclusive that our ancestral father created the name Klumph and it was after he had come to this country.

The unusual and simplified arrangement used in the first edition has herein been retained. The Generation List section presents the family "tree" and the Alphabetical List section contains the individual genealogical data. The condensed biographies (rewritten and enlarged) of our ancestral father and the heads of each of the four branches (his sons) and the heads of each of the fifteen sub-branches (his grandsons) are placed herein as before in their proper places in the Klumph Generation List section. I have corrected the order of the births of the branch heads but to avoid confusion I am not changing the ABCD assigned in the first edition. For example, Jeremiah still heads branch A which also still holds first position even though I have since found Jeremiah was the third son instead of the first. The result is you have the same "key" as before which many of you have memorized.

Complete genealogical data of sub-branches 1a, 2a, 12d and 15d has been added. Several new sections have also been added. One with charts is the Klumph name continuance odds. There is also two criss-cross indexes to the Klumph Alphabetical List, one gives help to locate the living, the other a list of non-Klumph names mentioned.

In using this genealogy always consider the middle name or initial of the living and deceased. IT IS IMPORTANT as there are so many Klumphs with the same first name. Some even have the same middle name. In such cases I have numbered them No. 1-2-3 etc., according to age. If you wish to know where somebody fits on the Family "tree", first turn to the Klumph Alphabetical List section where all Klumphs of all ages living or deceased are arranged by first names. Fan the pages while you watch the left hand pages stopping near the name you want. Notice at the conclusion of the genealogical data of that person the "key" in italic. Suppose it reads, 6th gen., br. D, sub-br. 14d. This means the person is in the sixth generation from our ancestral father and in branch D and sub-branch 14d. That may satisfy you. If not, get the page number of 14d from the table of contents, turn to that page and ignoring the small light faced print look for the larger type near the end of 14d data and there in the 6th generation is the name you seek in its proper position on the Family "tree" also his brothers and sisters and first cousins, etc., also his lineage. In the smaller type in 14d, the brief biography of the head of sub-branch 14d, there may be a mention of him, especially if he was living before the head of the sub-branch died. With a female Klumph you do the same things, she is listed in the Alphabetical List by her maiden name. If you should happen to know only her married name then look that up in the non-Klumph names list near the back of this booklet.

There are a few cases herein where the genealogical data of the living is not complete. Don't blame me. I had written time and again to get the missing parts and received no answer. However, most Klumphs have been most co-operative with me and my hobby of compiling a Klumph genealogy and I appreciate it. When through research I found the address of one Klumph and wrote him he would usually answer with the data on himself and family, parents, his grandfather's name and also addresses of brothers and sisters so that I could write them for their families' data. This was important because I had previously done research on myself back to our ancestral father and from there to all of his sons and grandsons. So I had the top. The next problem was to locate all of the living Klumphs and next by research to find exactly where they connected to that top part. This co-operation of the living provided me with more time to concentrate on the unknown. Many other Klumphs provided me with more information of their sub-branches. My concluding project was a series of extensive research trips to get more material about those in the first four generations and to again double-check the accuracy of what I had.

Every genealogy I have seen has a few "loose ends". This one has. If you or I discover some Klumphs with our spelling who are not in the Alphabetical List of this edition, then they no doubt connect to one of those "loose ends". I do not believe any more will be discovered, but I have thought that before and then discovered several.

As this genealogy is for Klumph names only, the Klumph daughters are carried for only one generation. However, their descendants will find this edition helpful if they are interested in their Klumph lineage.

The sub-branch generation lists herein were copied from my charts in the proper order so that if any of you wished to make charts of your own, it is simply a matter of copying off these names on a big sheet of paper with each generation on a separate horizontal line, and then connect them with vertical lines of lineage from information also in the generation lists herein.

For those interested in making their own personal lineage charts; get a large sheet of paper and draw say six roughly equal horizontal lines the long way of the sheet. On the bottom line near the center put your father's name and your mother's maiden name. On line above, four names; your grandparents. On next, eight names, etc. In two more generations back you would have 32 names of which Klumph is only one, making you say 1/32 German and 31/32 a mixture of perhaps many nationalities. In fact John Thomas Klumph's sons were half English. If interested, see the maiden names of Klumph wives contained in the alphabetical list herein. Of course for such a personal chart you would need information on the maternal-side not contained in this genealogy, but the alphabetical list herein contains far more information than would appear at first glance.

This paragraph is only for those interested in the DAR (Daughters of the American Revolution). So far Klumph females have shown little desire to join the DAR. Theoretically all should be eligible to join through our ancestral father. Actually for you to be acceptable could be difficult and costly. Especially so for the first applicant to furnish acceptable proof of lineage and veteran certification, as I do not believe anyone has even tried to meet the requirements through him. This is further complicated by his enlistment as Thomas Klumph instead of John Thomas Klumph and in the era when his children were born his name was misspelled on documents as Clump, Klump, etc., and certified copies of those documents may be required as alternate evidence as births were not recorded in that area. I am so accustomed to seeing our name misspelled on old and even modern records that I consider the evidence documented even when misspelled. But I understand the DAR does not without further proof. This I could not find and I have been told by high priced professionals that I have as much "know how" in genealogical research as they do. But this does not mean I am an expert on DAR requirements nor how to meet them. Those in branch A are also eligible through Jeremiah. I am informed the late Mrs. Myron A. Stevens, daughter of nee Mary Armanilla Klumph joined through him. Since then I understand the DAR requirements have been made more difficult and so if she had applied later her application may have been rejected. But maybe not. Those in branch D are also all eligible through Thomas J. Klumph's wife's father Pelatiah Rice (in DAR vol. 20 page 150 and vol. 21 page 1, and in "Veterans of American Revolution of Chautauqua co. N.Y." page 62 published by the DAR in 1925.) I do not believe any Klumph female has yet applied through him but others have and were accepted. Perhaps it would be easier through Jeremiah or Mr. Rice than John. It may be simpler through some already established "set-up" through your maternal side. Those with wealth can hire all the work done, others must do it themselves. I am sorry that except for this genealogy itself and this paragraph that I am not of more assistance to any who may desire to join the DAR. But I simply am not a DAR expert. I could tell you where to send for photostatic copies of many documents but I don't know what you need nor even if any of them would meet the DAR requirements of lineage proof. I suggest you ask your local DAR for detailed official requirements, if interested. Also show them this genealogy and paragraph and ask their advice.

The mailing list of this edition is much larger than before. It includes many Klumphs I did not know about before and were not mentioned in the first edition. Also I have more names with addresses of non-Klumph-name descendants of our ancestral father. I have added those with families to the mailing list at their request. Our ancestral father has a very large number of non-Klumph-name descendants of whom I do not have their names nor addresses. In consideration of them I am sending a copy of this edition to the genealogical departments of seventeen state libraries and the Congressional Library in Washington, D.C.

The Klump, Klumpp and Klumpf Families are not connected to us in any way. Occasionally I have double-checked records on them to be sure it was not actually a misspelled record of a Klumph. The result has been I have accumulated a considered amount of odds and ends of genealogical data of those Families. If any of them decide to compile a genealogy this data I have would help them. I hope it will be before I have destroyed it. They are very much more numerous than us, and more arrive from Germany every year.

Our genealogy begins with our "immigrant" ancestral father as do most American genealogies. I have no desire to go back further. If anyone did, what name would they look for? Certainly not Klumph. It would have to be Klumfe or Klumffee. As that name does not appear to be in use in Germany today it would be a big task, but probably not impossible. Obviously the searcher would find no Klumph crest or seal.

If all the genealogy information contained in this condensed arrangement were rearranged into that of the usual book-form there would actually be enough material for a book. Some genealogy authors by the use of large type on thick paper and printing on only one side of the sheet and by the use of thick outside binders can produce an impressive book. But actually what counts is not bulk but the amount of genealogy information and the accuracy thereof, and to keep it simple. Many people cannot make heads or tails of the usual genealogy book. I have asked many Klumphs I have visited for advice on how to keep the printing of this genealogy simple and I am following their suggestion. One example: the last name of a child of a male Klumph is naturally also Klumph, but in this genealogy the Klumph or abbreviation K., or Kl., is always used.

During my long search of data for this genealogy I have found few skeletons in our closet. Nor have I found record of a Klumph whom I would term as famous. None officially made "Whose Who," I know of, although a few did get mentioned therein as wives of those who did. Male Klumph marriages ending in divorce is a distinct rarity. It is not so rare in female Klumph marriages, but still much below the national average.

The generation list and alphabetical list herein each contain some detailed information of each individual not found in the other list. Therefore use both when seeking the most information available. Also by noting the location of a father's place of birth and those of his children and the location of his death you have the migration in part for that family. By comparing dates you have a great deal of information. Did the father marry late in life? Is the wife much younger? Did a father have minor children and grandchildren? Was a widow or widower left with small children? Did the husband outlive his wife? Was a second wife younger or older than the first wife? Was there an unusual spacing of children? By comparing addresses: Are the adult brothers and sisters living in one section or are they scattered all over the country? Is a widow or widower living with one of their children? Those so inclined, may find an enormous amount of information herein.

I plan to retain the type forms as before and to issue a third and revised edition about 1965 or later, if still around, for the purpose of recording new births, marriages and deaths occurring after January 1, 1960. I hope someone who has the time and money will volunteer to succeed me, when I am unable to carry on, so that new and up to date editions can continue to be printed at five or ten year intervals. I would donate the type forms boxed for shipment and prepaid of the last edition I publish and my master records and charts. The forms can be altered and brought up to date at only a tiny fraction of the amount I have spent on research. In the meantime I hope you will all continue to keep me posted with complete data of new births, marriages, deaths and corrections and address changes. This will permit me to keep the Klumph master records here continually up to date and if there are an unusual amount of new items I may issue a small supplement from time to time.

I sincerely hope you enjoy this second and revised edition.

GENERATION LIST

Ancestral Father

John Thomas Klumph, the first

John Thomas (Gustavus) Klumph, No. 1, was our ancestral father. He was born in Germany in 1729. The first thirty years of his life would be a complete blank to us were it not for the many Klumph legends handed down. Some of the legends are extremely contradictory to the others. Yet by testing each legend against known recorded colonial history and discarding parts obviously impossible, a rather definite pattern emerges.

His father, this pattern indicates, was probably a German Palatine farmer driven from his home near the Rhine river by the French army. Instead of going to England and other countries his father elected to go with a fewer number to northern Germany. If he had chosen England as most of the Palatines did, it would have been possible for him to have been part of the three thousand that English Queen Anne sent to New York colony in 1710; thus in 1729 our ancestral father would have been born in this country instead of Germany.

In north Germany John learned farming and blacksmithing at an early age. In his middle or late teens he left home and moved to England. He arrived at an unfortunate time if he expected to find work there as none was then available to Germans. So he enlisted in the English army and was sent overseas. He was never a professional soldier in the usual sense of the word; he was one of the regiment's blacksmiths. It appears his regiment was stationed on Jamaica island when the French and Indian war started.

After it had become obvious to Pitt, the English prime minister, that the Colonial forces may lose the war to the French, he sent many regiments of British regulars to America from England, Jamaica and elsewhere.

John's regiment probably arrived in Albany in the early Spring of 1758 where it was joined by seven English and Highlander regiments and nine provincial regiments all under the command of English Gen. Abercomby who set out to take Fort Ticonderoga. He failed and after terrible losses returned to Albany with a shattered army and wintered there.

The next year, 1759, under more competent command, was more successful and they wintered at Crown Point and other places on Lake Champlain. From there in the Spring of 1760 they continued to Montreal which fell. Quebec fell to other English forces and the war ended although the treaty was not signed until 1763.

Just how much actual fighting our ancestral father did during those three years is unknown because the life of regiment blacksmiths was not just shoeing horses, but included maintenance of all the regiment vehicles, boats and ordnance and many special duties behind the front lines. It is possible some of those duties of John included being interpreter for the English interrogation officers of German prisoners who had been pressed into the French armies and who deserted at the first opportunity to become prisoners of the English and Colonial forces. However being a regiment blacksmith could be extremely hazardous at times, such as in the 1758 battle of Ticonderoga when General Abercomby ordered all available blacksmiths to move ahead of his front line to pierce the French dense barricade. Most of them were killed in this futile attempt. No list of the names of the survivors was made.

It appears his enlistment expired during the campaign but he was not discharged until his regiment returned to Albany, N. Y., in the late Fall of 1760 after the fighting ended and when he was age 31.

It is unknown just what attracted him to Albany as a civilian nor when and how he met Peggy Davis nor his occupation, but it probably was blacksmithing. The date of their marriage is unknown but it appears to have been early in 1762 when he was 33 and she 19. That same year he and his bride and four families set out to journey to the part of Albany county that is now Springfield township; Otsego county. When they arrived at the head of Otsego Lake (over sixty miles west of Albany) each picked where they wished to settle. Our ancestral Klumph parents settled at the NW corner of the lake, the Jacob Tygart family north from the lake, and the John Kelly, Richard Ferguson and James Young families in the eastern part nearly six miles away. To settle so far apart was an extremely daring thing to do. It was Indian country; they had no legal right to the ground they claimed and there were no other white people in the area and for the next six years very few other families came to the area. Yet they had no serious trouble with the Indians until the Revolution.

Alone these families could not have coped with the more difficult parts of cabin and barn building, the most heavy work of clearing the dense forests for farming, nor "road" building, serious illness nor child birth. These five original pioneers or their wives often united to help each other. A round trip to a store in the Mohawk valley to the north required two full days. There was no doctor. To the east the tiny village of Cherry Valley was closer but as they too had to transport their goods from the Mohawk valley the prices would be higher. (Cherry Valley land patent was granted in 1738 and it was the first settlement in what is now Otsego county. Cooperstown later at the south end of Otsego Lake did not exist when our ancestral father settled at the opposite end of the lake. Otsego Lake, the largest body of water in this region, is eight miles long north and south and about one mile wide. It is about 1,200 feet above sea level and is surrounded by hills that rise from 400 to 500 feet above its surface. It is the head waters of the great Susquehanna River. The lake was later made famous as the scene of James Fenimore Cooper's novels "The Deerslayer," "The Pioneers" and others)

In 1767 a newcomer arrived who settled at the north end of Otsego Lake. It was Captain Augustine Prevost, retired, who had served in the British army in Jamaica. It appears he and our ancestral father had known each other quite well before. It is possible that at one time Prevost had been his commanding officer. Anyway it appears John's second son, Augustine, who was born the next year was named after the captain who was the son-in-law of Colonel Croghan then special Indian agent for the colonies of New York and Pennsylvania.

When the Fort Stanwix treaty was signed in 1768 between the Iroquois and the English, the King granted Colonel Croghan a huge land patent in now Otsego county and included all the land around most of Otsego Lake and the land settled by the original five pioneers. Surveyors were brought in to divide the grant into lots and the whole northern section was assigned to Captain Augustine Prevost to sell. The surveyors ignored the property lines of the original settlers who then had to buy from Prevost a lot containing the most valuable part of their farm. But at least for the first time they could obtain legal possession.

John Thomas Klumph bought lot number eight. It was oblong and ran NW to SE, the latter corner was on the west side of the lake less than a mile south of the extreme NW corner of the lake. The lot contained 100 acres more or less according to the deed. One might describe it as containing two plateaus, a high one in the rear, a lower one by the lake and hilly between the two. Not my idea of a farm but he did very well with it. The surveyors with this arrangement created twice as many lots having lake frontage. The deed was dated April 8, 1771 and was proved and recorded at the Cooperstown court house Feb. 29, 1804. The clerk misspelled the name on his record as Thomas Clump. (This is understandable as our John Thomas Klumph did not like his first name and rarely used it and he pronounced Klumph as "clump" just as most of us do today. His wife apparently pronounced it as "clumf".)

John was able to supplement his farm income by work done in his small blacksmith shop on the farm and he became noted in the area for his craftsmanship. He occasionally was employed by Prevost who built himself a rather palatial home and the Prevost saw mill. John also did hauling in a strong wagon he had built to transport goods into the area from now Canajoharie in the Mohawk valley. His wife taught the children and Indians of the area to read and write.

Richard Smith arrived in the area May 1769 enroute to inspect land in a patent on the Susquehanna river. He carried with him a journal into which he recorded his trip day-by-day and the names of all the people he met. He found our ancestral father with several others together on a building project near Prevost's place. Smith got mixed up on first names and recorded our ancestral father as Gustavus Klumph. After the Revolution when the historian Hurd was gathering material for his History of Otsego county most of the records of the north part of the lake had been destroyed in the Springfield and Cherry Valley massacres whereas Smith's journal was intact in his home in New Jersey. The result was Hurd used Smith's "Gustavus" version and the later county histories likewise. None of the names of the children or wife of John appears in any Otsego county history book but they do appear in histories of Chautauqua county N.Y., Boone county Illinois and others and usually have their father's name correctly.

In the Revolution the Iroquois were allies of the British, but most of the action of the Indians were supplements to the Tories who raided and destroyed the frontier regions of the new nation. The area of our ancestral family was especially susceptible to these raids. Most of the newcomers left at once and never returned. Our ancestral father proved time and again the most important thing to him was his family. When friendly Indians warned him of pending raids in his immediate vicinity and to which fort was the best to go to at the time, he never hesitated. He gathered his family together and took them to that fort. The safest one was about twelve hours away. When those Indians believed it safe to return he did and usually found considerable damage had been done. He also found and buried the bodies of neighbors who had refused to go promptly. Often he had not completed the repair before a new raid warning came. The most serious raid was the massacre of Cherry Valley and nearby Springfield in 1778. It seems he had taken his family to a fort in the Mohawk valley at the time. That year John was 49, his wife 35, Jacob 15, Augustine 10, Jeremiah 9, Mary 3 and Thomas a few months old. (The other two daughters were not born until 1780 and 1787)

Unlike most of the others, John never gave up returning to his homestead between raids and was sometimes able to plant or harvest a crop. Even so, his financial status became desperate and a year later George Clinton, first governor of the state of New York, sent him money to reimburse some of his losses. The massacre of Cherry Valley so aroused the people of the colonies that George Washington in 1779 sent the governor's brother General James Clinton with a strong well equipped force to take the offensive against the Indians and he was very successful. There were much fewer Indian-Tory raids in the Otsego Lake area after that.

In January 1781 John's son Jeremiah at only 12 enlisted and became a dispatch rider and a year later John himself enlisted at 53, but as usual as Thomas Klumph instead of John Thomas Klumph, according to the pay roll records of Hugh Hughes, deputy quartermaster for the state of New York for 1782. His rank, it says, was fatigued man and express which probably means blacksmith and transportation. There was little action that year as the British General Cornwallis had surrendered at Yorktown, Va., Oct. 19, 1781, but the peace treaty was not signed until 1783.

During John's absence from home his son Jacob 19 was the head of the family. (It is likely that Augustine and perhaps Jacob had served for short periods in the Army of the American revolution, but not the fourth son Thomas who was only five years old.) John and Jeremiah returned home about December 1782.

For the next twelve years our John was able to accomplish much on his homestead with the assistance of his sons and freedom from Indian raids. In 1787 when John was 58 and his wife 44 the last of their seven children was born; Catherine ("Lany"). In the first Federal Census, 1790, John was misrecorded as Thomas Clump. (The only other Clump in the country was really Klump and not related. There was no Klumph spelling)

John's second son Augustine at 27 was the first to marry (Jan. 31, 1795 to Sarah Simpson, 17) and it appears they remained with his father and their two children, Thomas S. and Harriet S. were born there and it wasn't until fifteen years later (1810) the Augustine family moved to Chautauqua county N. Y. John had ample funds to enlarge the home on the homestead due to his previous financial interest in an 8,000 acre land promotion started in 1789. He and a group of partners purchased the land in the Susquehanna valley and hired promoters to sell it. (Recorded Thomas Clump)

The first to leave home was Jeremiah (3rd son) who at 28 married Amanda Norton 18 in 1797 and settled on a newly purchased 200 acre farm nearby. He had been a very junior partner in that land promotion. John's daughter Elizabeth at 19 married Leonard Vibbard 18 in 1799. Finally the oldest son Jacob at 40 married a girl 17, Catherine Bowhall, but remained at his father's home thirteen more years. John's daughter Catherine at 19 married Perry Hall 21 in 1806. Thomas J., the youngest son, married at 29 to Sarah Rice 18 in 1807 and moved far away to Chautauqua county N.Y., and later Jacob, Augustine and the married sisters followed him there.

This must have been a great disappointment to our John when 87. The big house must have seemed empty with only himself, his wife and daughter Mary who never married. But to him, even though all of his helpers had gone, it was probably unthinkable to give up this homestead he had created with so much toil from the wilderness. His son Jeremiah finally came to his rescue by selling his own nearby farm which was better suited to farming than that of John and moved his family to his father's house. This was a sacrifice for Jeremiah who preferred to move with the others to Chautauqua county, but it brought happiness to his parents. In the fall of 1817 John's health began to fail and that winter several of his children and grandchildren made the long and difficult trip back to the old homestead for an extended visit. While there, Jeremiah's wife died and in January 1818 John, our ancestral father, died at the age of 89.

John Thomas (Gustavus) Klumph was survived by his wife Margaret 75 and all seven of his children, Jacob W. 55; Augustine C. 50; Jeremiah 49; Mary 43; Thomas J. 40; Elizabeth (Mrs. Leonard Vibbard) 38 and Catherine "Lany" (Mrs. Perry Hall, Sr.) 31. Also nineteen Klumph grandchildren, Margaret then age 19, Philip 16, Elon 13, Nelson 11, Louise 8, Mary 6, Erastus 2, Amanda few months; Benson 14, Jerry 12, Augustine D. 9, Elizabeth 7, Alfred K. 2 (Amelia and Joseph not yet born); Thomas S. 22, Harriet 18; Alexis 8, Jacob 3, John Thomas No. 2, 1 (Fayette, Doctor, Charity, Charlotte and Cornelius not yet born). He was also survived by then four Vibbard and four Hall grandchildren. None of his grandchildren had yet married, none had died. (Having been survived by nineteen living Klumph-name grandchildren established a record none of his male Klumph descendants have even come close to matching. Even more remarkable is that his four sons who made this possible had lived through the Indian massacre days when whole families lost their lives).

His estate was not probated. Instead, his wife and children collectively sold the farm (lot 8) to Garret Wikoff February 26, 1818 for $2,000 which was probably equivalent to $25,000 in 1959 dollars. The division of the estate is unknown. Immediately thereafter Jeremiah, his family, his mother and sister Mary moved to Chautauqua county N.Y., where all the others Klumphs lived.

A biography of our ancestral mother (nee Margaret "Peggy" Davis) is not possible at this time and may never be. In old Albany county the name Davis outnumbered all others. Five unrelated groups by the name of Davis have genealogies but not our Margaret. Of the large remainder it is now impossible to determine who descended from whom. Legend says she was an Albany school teacher but there is no proof now, but there could have been before the state library and capitol fire in 1911. Albany had no public schools before the Revolution but they did have private schools for the rich children and "ma'am" schools for the others. I do not question the legend as she was definitely educated and qualified. She and her husband were among the original members of the First Presbyterian church of now Springfield township, Otsego county. That church never had a building. She probably was the motivation of her husband's adoption of the Klumph spelling, which previously was said to be Klumfe or Klumffee. No doubt she would be annoyed at our failure to recognize that "ph" the consonantal digraph is pronounced "f" but even her own husband pronounced his new name as "clump." Nevertheless, they did create a new name, a name different from all others, by which their descendants alone, even today, could be immediately identified — Klumph — with the H on the end. She died in the home of her widower son Jeremiah in Portland township, Chautauqua county N. Y. Altogether she must have had a trying yet rewarding life with all the dangers and hardships of the frontier with devoted children and a husband who was steady, strong, a hard worker, perhaps a little too stubborn and strict, perhaps sensitive about his accent and her higher book education, but he loved his family.

2nd generation; the children of John Thomas Klumph No. 1, were: Jacob W. Kl., head of branch B; Augustine C. Kl., head of branch C; Jeremiah Kl., head of branch A; Mary D. Kl.; Thomas J. Kl., head of branch D; Elizabeth "Betsey" Kl., and Catherine "Lany" Klumph.

The Four Klumph "Branches"

Portland Township

To avoid repetition in the brief biographies which follow of the heads of Klumph branches and sub-branches, here is a brief history of Portland township, Chautauqua county N. Y. This township (called town in New York state) is important in Klumph history because at one time all the then living Klumphs resided there and nearly half of our ancestral father's grandchildren were born there, (the others were born in Otsego county except one who was born in Ohio much later).

There was a considerable difference between Portland township and Springfield township, Otsego county N.Y., over 250 miles eastward where the Klumphs previously lived. But the two had several things in common. Both were dense forests when the Klumphs arrived as pioneers, neither developed into the potentiality anticipated and all Klumphs left them more than a hundred years ago, both have Klumphs buried there and both were on or near important routes of travel. Differently, the area of now Springfield township was more clay, more hilly, had Indian troubles and was first a part of old Albany county, then Montgomery county and finally Otsego county and the first property purchased by a Klumph was bought under English laws as New York was then a colony. It was sold under American laws. Prior to purchase, lived there without title and with no legal rights. Whereas Portland township has more sand and gravel, less hilly, had no Indian troubles, was always a part of Chautauqua county in Klumph times, and still is; all transactions were under American laws and the Klumphs had title before they settled and had full legal rights.

Chautauqua county in which Portland township is located is the westernmost county in New York state, bordering on the state of Pennsylvania line on the south and west; Lake Erie on the north and two New York counties on the east. The whole county was only a small part of the huge holdings of the Holland Land company from whom all original purchasers, including the Klumphs, bought their land. (At first the prices were as low as $250 for 100 acres of forest land with $25 down and annual payments for ten years plus interest. To avoid that interest most Klumphs paid cash, some regretted it later as it left them short of needed cash. No land speculation was encouraged but some, especially Jeremiah, found ways). As that land company had purchased it from the Indians and others (American interests) with complete sanction of the government there were no later disputes of the legality of ownership nor any Indian raids. During the War of 1812 when Detroit fell and Buffalo was burned the almost defenseless people of Chautauqua county were thrown into near panic. A militia was hurriedly formed and it probably contained Klumphs, but the incomplete record did not mention them. The Federal government took most of the militia and sent them elsewhere thus leaving the county even more defenseless against a possible Indian raid or English action. But nothing happened to the county beyond fear and a severe economic setback and the militia losses elsewhere.

Portland township originally extended from the N. Y. - Penn state border on Lake Erie to about fifteen miles northeast along Lake Erie. During the Klumph times the area of the township was twice reduced until it was, as today, occupying the eastern third of that original area. Erie, Pa., is about twenty-five miles SW and Buffalo N. Y., fifty miles to the NE. The present village of Westfield N. Y. is just west of the west township line and Fredonia east of the east line. Portland township itself during Klumph times developed a few tiny villages. Today by far the largest is the village of Brocton where in 1950 one-third of the township population lived. (Brocton 1,380; the township including Brocton 3,339). In 1812 the population of Portland township was about 250 (38 families, 6 of which were Klumphs or Klumph in-laws. More came later). In 1830, population 1,771; in 1850, years after the Klumphs had left it was 1,905. The area of the township is about 36 square miles and is the shape of a parallelogram as the north line is Lake Erie which is SW to NE direction, and the south line five miles inland is parallel to the lake shore and cuts across the lot lines on a bias. However, the east and west lines run north and south. (Springfield township Otsego county was even more oddly shaped, especially so because of a wedge shaped projection of neighboring Herkimer county which comes down from the north almost cutting the township in two).

Even though Portland township is on Lake Erie there are no harbors there because a bluff extends along the shore and the water is shallow for some distance out. Most pioneers came to Portland by land via Buffalo. Thomas J. (4th son of John) was the first Klumph to arrive. It was 1808, the same year Chautauqua county was formed. Next came the 2nd son Augustine C. 1810; Jacob W., first son, 1816; Jeremiah, third son, in 1818, so by 1818 all the Klumphs had arrived and from then until the early 1830s all the Klumphs on earth were living in the same township. Then they commenced to leave for points west and by about 1837 they were all gone. (During those twenty-nine years land values in the township increased 300% and taxes 1000%)

Those buried in Portland township were our ancestral mother, her two oldest sons Jacob W., Augustine C. (and wife); her daughter Mary. Also two of Jeremiah's children, Philip and Elon; one of Jacob's, Jerry; and the first wife of Thomas S. (son of Augustine C.). (Buried in Springfield township were our ancestral father and the wife of Jeremiah). Five or more of the grandchildren of our ancestral parents were married in Portland township: Jeremiah's Margaret and Louise; Jacob's Benson, (Jerry?), (Augustine D.?), Elizabeth; Augustine's Harriet and Thomas S., twice (first wife died). (None of Thomas J.'s children were married there).

In the earliest days of Klumph times there were no roads in the township. The first ones were crude and had no bridges. The main road east and west was improved first and a stage coach line was established from Buffalo to Portland. It was not until 1829, two years before the Klumphs started to leave, that Post Coaches started to run the entire route from Buffalo to Erie. Railroads came in 1852, years after Klumph times there.

There is no need to go into detail here of the hardships of pioneer life nor the many years of hard toil it takes to gradually clear away the forest to make way for the farm; the difficulty to sell lumber in a glutted market; the later problem of selling farm products when more farms have developed than there are cities to consume; the inconveniences; the epidemics which could destroy whole families. The diminishing supply of game to supplement the pioneer's table; the never ending need of cash for taxes and other things in which trading and bartering was not acceptable; the continuous arrival of people, usually poor, causing greater need for more roads, schools and government thus more and more time spent on labor-taxes and need of more cash for ever increasing cash-taxes. It was a hard life and only the most hardy survived but the Klumphs had gone through this before and did so again and again.

When our ancestral mother died at 82 in Portland township about 1825 she had outlived her oldest son Jacob W. who died in 1823 at 60. All but one of her twenty-six Klumph grandchildren had been born (17 male, 9 female) and one had died; and all the then thirty-one living Klumphs on earth were concentrated into one area for the last time. (Today they reside from the Atlantic to the Pacific and sometimes overseas). (The ages of the thirty-one above ranged from 57 down to a few months old). She was also survived by one Klumph great grandchild (Hiram); three more were born in Portland during the next five years (Caroline, Clarinda, Alexander). She was also survived by about 21 non-Klumph name grandchildren and great grandchildren.

The Klumphs and their in-laws (the Halls, Vibbards, Rices, Andrews and others) were prominent as pioneers of Portland township as being among the original land purchasers, the first teachers, the owners of the first saw mill, store, tavern, blacksmith shop, ashery, distillery, winery, orchard and others. They also served as township and county officers such as judge, tax collector, law officers, supervisor, road commissioner, postmaster, clerk, etc. They helped found several Protestant churches. Whig and Federalist were the political parties of the Klumphs and Congregational and Methodist their churches. The name Klumph and those of the in-laws are prominent in the history books of that area, just as they were later to become prominent as pioneers further west. Several of the wives or husbands of later Klumphs can also trace their ancestry back to Portland township or elsewhere in Chautauqua county and even Otsego county.

JEREMIAH KLUMPH

Jeremiah, 2nd generation and head of branch A, was the third son of our ancestral father John Thomas Klumph No. 1. (In the first edition I reported him as the oldest son but later found the 1763 date of birth given in the records of the early Portland historian, Dr. Taylor, was incorrect). He was born in 1769 in what is now Springfield township Otsego county New York state, when his brother Jacob was 6, and Augustine fifteen months.

When Jeremiah was about 7 the Revolution and the era of serious Indian raids commenced. At 12 he must have been large for his age and capable around horses as the Quartermasters Dept. (N. Y. div.) of the American Army accepted his enlistment and assigned him to the duty and rank of ostler January 1781. Later he became an express rider carrying military messages between various army posts including messages of General George Washington. That was a hazardous assignment as the Indians and Tories were eager to kill the riders to obtain those messages. Jeremiah had arrived at an army post near Peekskill N. Y., when word was received there that the British Commander Lord Cornwallis had surrendered to General George Washington Oct. 19, 1781 at Yorktown, Va. That ended major war action but there was still trouble with the Indians and Tories, also the British army in New York city refused to leave until the treaty was signed in 1783. Jeremiah continued to serve a year longer and in 1782 his father was in the same outfit. Jeremiah served under Col. Hewes, Major Wolfe, Major Quackenbops and Hugh Hughes deputy Quartermaster. In December 1782 Jeremiah returned home and remained there for the next fourteen years.

In 1797 at the age of 28 he married Amanda Norton 18, and moved to a two hundred acre "farm" he had purchased nearby. In 1807 he desired to sell out and move to Portland township Chautauqua county N. Y., but his wife refused to go. But through agents he did engage in land speculation of that township while residing in Springfield township and helped his brothers financially to move to Portland. In 1816 he sold his 200 acre farm and moved his family to his father's farm nearby to act as manager replacing Jacob who had moved to Portland. His father was then 87. In the winter of 1817-1818 first Jeremiah's wife died at 38 and then his father at 89.

After the heirs sold the original Klumph homestead in February 1818, Jeremiah, his eight children, his mother and sister Mary moved to Portland and settled there on part of lot 47T4. At that time he was 49 and his children ranged from 20 down to 1. His sister Mary, 43 and single acted as mother for his children. Later that year his oldest daughter Margaret at 20 married John Bowhall (The couple lived nearby for eleven years, then moved to Fredonia N. Y., to Springfield, Pa., to Detroit, to Painesville Ohio where she died 1868 at 70. They had ten children). A year after Jeremiah's arrival his oldest son Philip died at 17 and eight years later (1827) his next oldest son Elon died at 22, both were single and buried on the farm. His mother died about 1825 at 82 and was also probably buried on the farm.

In 1829 his daughter Louisa at 19 married Phineas P. Willson 26 of Portland township and built their house on her father's farm. (Their first two children were born there, the other two in Wayne county Michigan. Some of their descendants changed the name from Willson to Wilson). Soon after 1829 Jeremiah's oldest surviving son Nelson then 22 and single, left for Detroit and Wayne county, Michigan. By 1830 Jeremiah's household had been reduced from eleven to five: himself 61, his sister Mary 55, his daughter Mary 18, son Erastus 14 and daughter Amanda 13. The original log cabin had long since been replaced by a frame farm house. In 1832 and 1833 he made application for a Revolution pension but it was rejected because he had suffered no disabilities. In Portland he was a Whig and a Methodist.

In 1836, after living in the same location in Portland township for eighteen years, he sold out at 67. He, his remaining family, his son-in-law and family set out for Detroit to join his son Nelson who had settled in Livonia township, Wayne county Michigan. Nelson at 27 had married Armanilla "Nelly" Stevens 22 in 1834. About 1837 Jeremiah's daughter Mary 26 married Samuel Willson 25 in Livonia township near Detroit where they remained the rest of their lives and had four children. Some of their descendants also changed their name from Willson to Wilson.

A year later, 1838, Jeremiah's youngest daughter Amanda at 21 married Miles Van Sickle 23 of Plymouth Michigan. (The couple soon moved to Decatur township, Van Buren county in SW Michigan where she died at 24; he remarried). 1839 was the year of the ill-fated first marriage of Erastus, Jeremiah's youngest son, which resulted in the first Klumph divorce and Jeremiah's grandson was raised by the parents of his daughter-in-law in central Michigan. Jeremiah was probably a silent partner in many land speculations in Wayne county transacted by Nelson, Erastus and the Willsons. He had been living with Nelson but in the 40s he moved into the farm home of his daughter Mary (Mrs. Samuel Willson), where he remained until his death in 1855 at 86. He was the first Klumph to be buried in Brigg cemetery, Livonia township, Wayne county, Michigan.

Of the family of wife and eight children only five children survived Jeremiah: Margaret at 57, Nelson 48, Louisa 45, Mary 43, Erastus 39. Also five Klumph grandchildren, William Henry at 15, William H. 9, Cyrus C. (later senior) 18. Amanda A. 16, Helen Frances 10; also ten Bowhall grandchildren; seven Willsons; and many nieces and nephews. He outlived his three brothers and possibly two sisters, but not his sister Catherine (Mrs. Perry Hall) who at 68 survived him.

Jeremiah was born seven years before the American Revolution and died six years before the Civil War. He had seen an important era in early American history, also considerable early Klumph history. He had lived to see his father struggle with pioneer life in Otsego county, he himself in Chautauqua county and finally saw his own children as pioneers in Wayne county. It is unfortunate indeed that the legend he had kept a diary of his life proved false. Of the six or more localities in America where the Klumphs were early pioneers, Wayne county Michigan was the only one to develop into the potentiality the pioneer Klumphs had anticipated. Yet today none of Jeremiah's Klumph-name descendants live there, although many non-Klumph-name ones live in the county or its city — Detroit.

Jeremiah's children (3rd generation) were: Margaret N. Kl.; Philip Kl.; Elon Kl.; Nelson H. Kl. (head of sub-branch 1a); Louisa A. Kl., No. 1; Mary C. Kl.; Erastus Kl. (head of sub-branch 2a); and Amanda E. Klumph.

1a sub-branch head: 3rd generation, NELSON H. KLUMPH

Nelson (son of Jeremiah Kl., and grandson of John Thomas Klumph No. 1) was born in Otsego county N. Y., Sept. 26, 1807. When he was 10 his mother died and a few months later his grandfather Klumph. He was still 10 when his father and family took the long trip by wagons to Portland township, Chautauqua county N. Y. in 1818. Nelson probably did considerable work on the established farm in Otsego county, but was expected to do much more on this new tract of converting a forest into a farm in Portland. All of the Klumphs were in that vicinity then. He remained on this farm for twelve years.

When 22 he left for Detroit and Wayne county Michigan where he was to spend the rest of his life. On December 14, 1834 in Greenfield township Wayne county when 27 he married Armanilla "Nelly" Stevens 22 and they settled in nearby Livonia township. About two years later his father age 67 and remaining family and the Phineas P. Willson family arrived from Portland and settled nearby. Nelson, like his father in the past, became a land speculator in addition to managing his own farm. At times Nelson was partners with his two Willson brothers-in-law and his brother Erastus, other times it was Nelson alone or Nelson and wife. The undeveloped land sites they bought and later sold are today worth a fortune. Nelson had considerable ability but the speculations were always side issues with him. He did well but never made a fortune. His wife sometimes speculated in her own name; her specialty was prospective industrial sites.

All of Nelson's four children were born in Wayne county. In 1859 in February Nelson's oldest son Cyrus at 22 married Catherine Ann Foster 18 and in April his next oldest, Amanda A., 20 married John Foster 24. (Catherine and John Foster were brother and sister.) Four years later, 1863, Nelson died at only 56. He was survived by his widow then 51 and all his children: Cyrus (later senior) 26, Amanda A. 24, and at home Helen 20, and William H. 17 (who married ten years later and had two daughters but no sons). Also two Klumph grandchildren Mary Arminilla 3 and George age 1, and two Foster grandchildren (his remaining grandchildren not yet born) and many nieces and nephews and four of his seven brothers and sisters, Margaret (Mrs. John Bowhall) 65; Louisa (Mrs. Phineas Willson) 53; Mary (Mrs. Samuel Willson) 51 and Erastus 47. Nelson's widow lived thirteen more years. Some believe it was through her that the thumb nail deficiency was inherited by several generations of Nelson's male descendants. Today Nelson's male Klumph-name descendants live in Florida and California.

4th generation, sub-branch 1a (children of Nelson H. Klumph): Cyrus Clinton Kl., Sr., Amanda A. Kl., Helen Frances Kl. and William H. Klumph. — 5th gen., (ch. of Cyrus Sr.): Mary Armanilla Kl., George Harrison Kl., Cyrus Clinton Kl., Jr. and Helen Amanda Klumph; (ch. of William H.): Essey C. Kl. and Gertrude A. 2a sub-branch head: 3rd generation, ERASTUS KLUMPH

Erastus (youngest son of Jeremiah Klumph and grandson of John Thomas Klumph No. 1) was born in Otsego county N. Y., January 7, 1816. Two years later his father moved his family to Portland township, Chautauqua county N. Y., where Erastus lived for the next eighteen years. He probably remembered little of his father converting a forest into a crude farm. But he undoubtedly assisted in making the crude farm into an improved one. When he was 20 he accompanied his father and the remainder of his father's family to Wayne county Michigan. He lived with his father two years and purchased eighty acres nearby.

In 1839 at 23 he married Lucretia Susanna Hoard who was five years older, 28. His son, William Henry Klumph was born October 1840. His wife divorced him in 1844 and she got the son. She took the boy to her folks in Shiawassee county Michigan where the boy and his mother lived until his marriage in 1859 to Sophia Waterman. (William Henry Klumph's son, Burt Jay Klumph was born in Shiawassee county in 1861. William died in the Civil War 1864. The son Burt was raised by his widowed mother until she remarried and thereafter he was raised by his grandmother Freeloze Waterman).

Erastus, after the divorce, remained on his greatly reduced farm. Later he became interested in the Michigan Methodist Conference which had headquarters in Detroit. He volunteered to serve as a missionary and was assigned the Caseville area in the NE corner of Saginaw Bay about 113 miles north of his Livonia farm. He obtained some land near Caseville and the settlers and Indians there helped him build his cabin. To support himself he raised melons which he took to Saginaw by ox-cart to sell. About 1847 when he was 31 he married Angeline (Mary) Augusta Dietloff 27, daughter of a German immigrant and neighbor to his Caseville farm. His twenty-four year service there was not continuous as he returned to Wayne county many times. Erastus and Mary had no children but they adopted and raised a boy, John Law born 1860 who became John Law Klumph who later had two sons. (One died at 64 as Wray Law Klumph who had no children, the other eventually changed his name to Elmer Law, dropping the Klumph name completely.)

In the fall of 1870 Erastus at 54 resigned as Methodist missionary and with Mary and John returned to Wayne county to stay. He purchased twenty acres about two miles south of Elm, Michigan where Mary died. Several years later he and John moved to a residence in Northville Michigan where he lived the rest of his life. A booklet about "Rev." Erastus Klumph and Caseville was published in 1937 by "Rev." Elmer W. Foster who was a grandson of Erastus' brother Nelson. The booklet contains nothing about Erastus' ill-fated first marriage nor those years of his life. The earlier Klumph genealogy in the booklet was very inaccurate, but that of Erastus and Caseville was reasonably accurate and interesting. Erastus died in 1903 at 87 and was survived through his first marriage by a grandson, Burt Jay Klumph then 42 and two Klumph great grandchildren, Jay Burt 15 and Ella May 13. Also many nieces and nephews. Erastus outlived all of his brothers and sisters and cousins and of course his parents. He was also survived by his adopted son John 43 and John's sons Elmer 13 and Wray 10. The Klumph name in this sub-branch ended with the above surviving grandson Jay Burt Klumph then 15 who later changed his name to Klump (the same spelling as the very large Klump family to which we Klumphs are in no way related). If some male descendant should start using the H it would revive the Klumph name in this sub-branch. The father of Erastus, Jeremiah, had been the last surviving son of our ancestral father and Erastus the last surviving grandson.

4th generation, sub-branch 2a (children of Erastus Klumph): William Henry Klumph — 5th gen., (ch. of William): Burt Jay Klumph — 6th gen., (ch. of Burt): Jay Burt Klumph who later changed his name to Klump and Ella May Klumph — 7th gen., (ch. of Jay): Robert LeRoy Klump(h) and Kenneth Burton Klump (h) — 8th gen., (ch. of Robert): Philip Jay Klump(h), Gary Stephen Klump(h), Cecilia June Klump(h) and Shirley Ann Klump(h) and (ch. of Kenneth): none.

Branch B and Sub-Branches 3b, 4b, 5b, 6b and 7b

JACOB W. KLUMPH

Jacob, 2nd generation and head of branch B, was the oldest son of our ancestral father John Thomas Klumph No. 1. (In the first edition I reported him as the second oldest son but later found it was incorrect.) He was born about 1763 in what is now Springfield township, Otsego county N.Y., but at that time it was part of Albany county. He was one of the first, if not the first, white child to be born in that immediate area. He must have had an unusual early childhood due to the lack of playmates nearby unless there were Indian children he could play with. Jacob was about 5 when his brother Augustine was born and fourteen months later Jeremiah. He was about 13 when the seven year Revolution started and the serious Indian raids began. Lads that age on the frontier were competent woodsmen and so he was probably considerable help to his father especially when they led the family to safety in some distant fort. (During the war he may have at one time or another served in the American army but I cannot find a record of it.) During 1782 when his father had enlisted, Jacob at 19 acted as man-of-the-house but no Indian raid occurred.

At 36 he was still at home and single when his nineteen year old sister Elizabeth married and two of his brothers (Augustine and Jeremiah) were already married and fathers. By that time it was probably believed Jacob would never marry, but he did. At 40 (1803) he married a girl 17, Catherine Bowhall and he continued living with his father on the farm where four of his seven children were born. (Jacob was 41 when his first child was born — Benson — and 57 when the last one was — Joseph.)

He moved his family to Portland township, Chautauqua county N.Y., in 1816, eight years after his brother Thomas J. and six years after his brother Augustine had located there. Jacob was then 53, his wife 30, his four children from 12 down to 5 (The remaining three children were born in Portland township.) He settled on part of lot 39T4. Later John Bowhall who married Margaret Klumph and the Leonard Vibbard family settled on the rest of this same lot. The result was a Klumph and two Klumph in-laws had between them 324 acres and it was located in the highest part of the township. The lots of other Klumphs and in-laws were both east and west of Jacob's. The next lot south of his was partly in Chautauqua township due to the bias of Portland's south townline.

Jacob died in 1823 at the age of 60. He was the first of the children of our ancestral father to die. He was survived by his wife then 37 and all of his seven children, Benson 19, Jerry 17, Augustine D. 14, Elizabeth 12, Alfred 7, Amelia 5 and Joseph 3; by his mother then 80 and all of his brothers and sisters, Augustine C. 55, Jeremiah 54, Mary 48, Thomas J. 45, Elizabeth (Mrs. Vibbard) 43 and Catherine (Mrs. Hall) 36 and many nieces and nephews. His last request was that he be buried on the farm between two large rocks.

Jacob's children (3rd generation) were: Benson Kl., (head of sub-branch 3b); Jerry Kl., (head of sub-branch 4b); Augustine D. Kl. (head of sub-branch 5b); Elizabeth Kl.; Alfred B. Kl., (head of sub-branch 6b); Amelia Kl. and Joseph K. Klumph (head of sub-branch 7b).

3b sub-branch head: 3rd generation, BENSON KLUMPH

Benson was the oldest son of Jacob W. Klumph and grandson of John Thomas Klumph No. 1 and was born November 30, 1804 in Otsego county N.Y. When 12 he moved with his father and family to Portland township, Chautauqua county N.Y. and was 19 when his father at 60 died there. His widowed mother, 37, became head of the family of her seven children. If Benson had been allowed to assume responsibility for the family, the youngest being only 3, he may have never married, but his mother refused. Four years later, 1827, when Benson was 23 he married Chloe Hutchins 17. The couple settled on his mother's farm, but in their own house and their three children were born there. He assisted his mother and brothers on the farm and also worked in a saw mill.

In 1834 his mother sold the farm and she with her remaining family and Benson's moved to Michigan. At the time Benson was 29, his wife 23, his children Caroline 6, Clarinda 5 and Alexander 3; his mother 48, his brother Augustine 25, Alfred 18, Joseph 14; his sister Amelia 19. (The remaining sister Elizabeth 23 appears to have been married and remained in Portland.) Benson and family stayed in Michigan only one year and leaving the others there took passage on an early steamship to Chicago and then overland to now LeRoy township, Boone county Illinois. His U.S. land patent there was eighty acres (the east half of SW quarter of Section 8 T46 R4) which was not proved until 1845 and on which he remained until his death in 1897. In 1852 this eighty acres was reduced to sixty as he sold twenty acres. In 1851 his son Alexander at 19 married Elizabeth Cramer 19 and settled nearby and later Alexander served in the Civil War. Benson's daughter Caroline married Reuben Miller. The couple moved to Kenosha Wisconsin and had five children. In 1873 Benson's wife died at the age of 63. His daughter Clarinda 44 who never married took over the housekeeping for the remaining twenty-four years of his life.

The rear of Benson's property was one mile south of the Illinois-Wisconsin border and his post office was Sharon Wisconsin, thus he lived in Illinois but his RFD route came from another state. At one time he and his brothers owned 280 acres of sections 8 and 17 (directly south of 8). They were among the first pioneers of the area. Today several of their non-Klumph-name descendants live in Boone county but none of the Klumph-name ones. In 1892 Benson paid for a write-up in the book "Portrait and Biographical record of Winnebago & Boone counties, Illinois" and received a very flowery presentation therein. The reference to Benson's grandfather (our ancestral father) was unfortunately a mixed-up version of a Klumph legend which later proved false.

Benson died in 1897 at 93 and was survived by two of his children, Clarinda then 68 and Alexander 66 and six Klumph grandchildren, Elva 37, Jenette (Mrs. Warren Woods) 34, Joseph W. 32, Florence (Mrs. Charles Yoeman) 30, Annie (Mrs. Thomas Cockerill) 27 (still living in 1959 age 89) and Albert B. 20 (who married the following year and had sons thus saving Benson's sub-branch of Klumphs.) Also surviving him were several Miller, Wood and Yoeman grandchildren and great grandchildren. It is unknown if any of his brothers and sister survived him. If none did, then Benson was the next of last of our ancestral father's twenty-six grandchildren to die; the last one, Erastus, died six years later at 87. But Benson's age of 93 at death was the record. Today, January 1, 1960, Benson's male Klumph-name descendants live in Wisconsin, Iowa and California.

4th generation, sub-branch 3b (children of Benson Klumph): Caroline Kl.,

Clarinda Kl. and Alexander Klumph. — 5th gen., (ch. of Alexander): Elva Jane Kl., Jenette Ellen Kl., Joseph Wesley Kl., Florence Adaline Kl., Annie Elizabeth Kl. and Albert Benson Klumph. — 6th gen., (ch. of Joseph W.): none; (ch. of Albert B.): Leslie Clifford Kl., Iva Bernice Kl., Jesse LaVerne Kl., Grace Viola Kl. and Forrest Raymond Klumph. — 7th gen., (ch. of Leslie): Rollin Alfred Kl., Anita Lucille Kl., Ruby Alice Kl. and Edith Irene Klumph; (ch. of Jesse): Ruth Eileen Kl. and Ellen Marie Klumph; (ch. of Forrest): Beverly Anne Klumph. — 8th gen., (ch. of Rollin): Mark Dale Kl., Kim LaVonne Kl. and Jeffery Charles Klumph, (b-1958).

4b sub-branch head: 3rd generation, JERRY KLUMPH

Jerry was the second son of Jacob W. Klumph and the grandson of John Thomas Klumph No. 1. He was born in 1806 on the original Klumph homestead in Otsego county N. Y. He was 12 when his father and family moved to Chautauqua county N. Y., and 17 when his father died. There is still question if Jerry married and if there were children, but if he did they were daughters or if a son he must have later been adopted by non-Klumphs and his name changed. Jerry died in 1833 at the age of 27 and was buried on the farm.

4th generation of 4b (children of Jerry Klumph): unknown, if any.

5b sub-branch head: 3rd generation, AUGUSTINE D. KLUMPH

Augustine was the third son of Jacob W. Klumph and grandson of our ancestral father John Thomas Klumph No. 1, and was born in 1809 on his grandfather's farm. He was 9 when his father and family moved to Chautauqua county and 14 when his father died there. In 1834 when he was 26 his mother sold the farm and the family moved to Michigan where, with the exception of Benson's family, they remained for over five years. Augustine's sister Amelia at 20 (1838) married John McDonald and her son David was born there, and soon thereafter her husband died.

About 1840 Augustine, Alfred, Amelia, Joseph and their mother moved to LeRoy township Boone county Illinois and settled on Augustine's forty acre U.S. land grant (NE qtr of NE qtr of sec 17 T46 R4) which was proved 1846. In 1851 he sold out to Joseph and left for parts unknown. In 1870 he had returned to Boone county and was living with Alfred and Amelia. The last record of Augustine was as a witness in Sharon Wisconsin in 1879. There is no proof that he had or had not married at some time during his lifetime. If he did marry, it did not last long and would have had to be in his Portland or Michigan days or during the period his whereabouts were unknown.

4th generation of 5b (children of Augustine D. Klumph): if any, names unknown.

6b sub-branch head: 3rd generation, ALFRED B. KLUMPH

Alfred B. was the fourth son of Jacob W. Klumph and grandson of John Thomas Klumph No. 1, and was born in 1816 and was the first of Jacob's children to be born in Portland township, Chautauqua county, N. Y. He was 7 when his father died at 60 and his mother 37 took over the management of the farm and was 18 when the family moved to Michigan and about 23 to Boone county Illinois. His original eighty acre U.S. land grant was the S. half of NE qtr of Section 17 T46 R4. He sold out in 1859 and moved to Sharon Wisconsin a few miles away, and from there to parts unknown. In 1868 he was back in Leroy township Boone county Illinois where he bought a 160 acre farm which he sold in 1875 and again moved to Sharon Wisconsin where he had property. He was there in 1834 at the age of 68. When and where he died is unknown. It is said that he was a dwarf, that is, fully developed except for very short legs. He was the only one in Klumph history. No definite proof has been found whether or not he had married at some time during his life.

4th generation of 6b (children of Alfred B.): if any, names unknown.

7b sub-branch head: 3rd generation, JOSEPH K. KLUMPH

Joseph was the youngest son of Jacob W. Klumph and grandson of our ancestral father John Thomas Klumph No. 1. He was born in Portland township, Chautauqua county N. Y., 1820, and was 3 when his father died at 60 and his mother 37 took over management of the farm and was 14 when the family moved to Michigan and 19 to LeRoy township, Boone county Illinois. His original U.S. land grant was forty acres (SE qtr of section 8 T46 R4) and to this he later added the next forty acres to the west and another forty acres to the south, both from his brother Augustine, and still another forty acres from his brother Alfred which gave him a total of 160 acres. In 1859 he reduced this to 120 acres.

In 1846 when Joseph was 26 he married Sardinia Austin 17 and they settled on the original forty acres he had purchased the year before. He and his brothers were the pioneers of that part of LeRoy township Boone county Illinois. It was a wilderness then and it was to take many years to develop it into improved farms. They are mentioned in the history books of the county. Some of their non-Klumph name descendants still live in Boone county but none of the Klumph-name ones.

Two of Joseph's daughters married Iunghuhn brothers.

Joseph K. died March 18, 1886 at age 66 and was survived by his wife then 57 and all of his six children, Catherine (Mrs. Henry Jenkins) 39; William J. (single) 37, Sophronia (Mrs. Charles Iunghuhn) 32, Elida (Mrs. Leander Iunghuhn) 27, Alta (not yet married) 23 and Alfred Augustus 20 (who married five years later and whose widow was 89 in 1959). Joseph was also survived by several Jenkins and Iunghuhn grandchildren; his brother Benson then 82 (and probably Augustine D. 77, Elizabeth 75, Alfred B. 70 and Amelia (Mrs. McDonald) 68) and many nieces, nephews and cousins.

4th generation 7b (children of Joseph): Catherine Amelia Kl., William Jacob Kl., Sophronia Luizia Kl., Elida Matilda Kl., Alta May Kl. and Alfred Augustus Klumph. — 5th gen., (ch. of William): none; (ch. of Alfred A.): Howard Curtis Kl., Harold Joseph Kl., Robert Russell Kl., Royal Eugene Kl. and Helen Marion Klumph. — 6th gen., (ch. of Howard): Alberta Ruth Kl., Lucille Viola Kl., Ethel Mae Kl., Alfred Jacob Kl. and Joyce Ramona Klumph; (ch. of Harold): none; (ch. of Robert): Bernice Elizabeth Kl., Russell Curtis Kl. and Robert Eugene Klumph, Sr.; (ch. of Royal): Donna Louise Kl. and Barbara Mae Klumph. — 7th gen., (ch. of Alfred J.): none; (ch. of Russell): Dennis Alan Kl., Blayne Curtis Kl., Marcia Lynn Kl. and Terry Lee Klumph; (ch. of Robert Sr.): Robert Eugene Kl., Jr., Randall Russell Kl., Ricky Lee Kl. and Ronald William Klumph.

As Joseph was the youngest son of his family and because his own Klumph descendants are via his youngest son Alfred Augustus Klumph the result is this sub-branch is a generation behind many of the others. The oldest male in the 7th generation here is 14, the youngest 2.

Today, January 1, 1960, Joseph's male Klumph-name descendants live in North Dakota, Montana and nine of them in Oregon. This sub-branch contains thirteen living male Klumphs which is only equaled by sub-branch 12d.

Branch C and Sub-Branch 8c

AUGUSTINE C. KLUMPH

Augustine C., 2nd generation and head of branch C, was the second son of our ancestral father, John Thomas Klumph No. 1. (In the first edition I reported him as the third son but further research proved that incorrect). He was born June 15, 1768 in what is now Springfield township, Otsego county N.Y., but was then part of old Albany county. He was named after Captain Augustine Prevost, retired, who was a new neighbor and apparently an old friend of his father. Even though Augustine was only about 8 when the Revolution and the era of serious Indian raids and massacres commenced, he probably was of some help to his parents. Some of the white children friends of Augustine were captured and other times the Indians killed even children and babies. The constant fear of the hostile Indians must have been a sobering experience for Augustine and his brothers. (When he was 12 there is indication he enlisted in the American army and served as "stable boy." But I found no actual record of this. Several years after his death his children applied for the veteran's pension he never applied for but which they felt he should have received and therefore the total sum should be paid to them as heirs. The application was rejected and no cause given.)

After the Revolution he was helpful in rebuilding the old homestead into a nice farm. When he was 26 he married Sarah Simpson 17, January 31, 1795. It appears her father was John Simpson of Warren township, Herkimer county N.Y., which was only a few miles NW of the Klumph homestead in NW Otsego county. The couple may have lived with her parents part of the time but I believe their children were born on his father's homestead, (Thomas S. 1796; Harriet 1800).

In 1810 when he was 42, his wife 32 and son 14 and daughter 10, he moved to Portland township Chautauqua county N.Y., and was the second male Klumph to settle there. Accompanying him on that long difficult trip were his brothers-in-law Hall and Vibbard with their families. Augustine settled on the north part of lot 37T5, next SE from where his brother Thomas J. had recently settled. The settlers had just completed the first school house but had no teacher, so Augustine served as teacher that winter. (That log school house was abandoned thereafter as unsuitable in location). Augustine later sold part of his land but retained fifty-six acres. He and his wife were among the original members of the first Congregational church in Portland in 1818. When he was 60 and his wife 50 she died (1828). His daughter, her husband Asa Andrews and children moved into his log cabin with him. Later they took over the homestead and Augustine moved to the home of his son Thomas S. nearby.

Augustine died January 16, 1837 at the age of 69, fourteen years after his brother Jacob's death and after his other two brothers had moved away as had all the other Klumphs except his own son and family. He was survived by his son Thomas S., 41 and his daughter Harriet (Mrs. Asa Andrews Sr.) 37 and by five Klumph grandchildren, Hiram 14, Henry 8, Joseph E. 5, Franklin 4 and Mary 1 (six others not yet born) and several Andrews grandchildren. He was also survived by his brothers Jeremiah 68, Thomas J. 59 and two sisters and twenty-three nieces and nephews.

3rd generation (children of Augustine C.): Thomas S. Kl. (head of sub-branch 8c) and Harriet S. Klumph.

8c sub-branch head: 3rd generation, THOMAS S. KLUMPH

Thomas S. was the only son of Augustine C. Klumph and was the first born of the twenty-six Klumph grandchildren of our ancestral father John Thomas Klumph No. 1. He was born October 3, 1796 on his grandfather's farm in Otsego county N.Y., and was 14 when his father and family moved to Chautauqua county N.Y. Soon thereafter he opened a store in a corner of his father's cabin. It was very successful as it was the only store in the township. When he outgrew his quarters he opened the township's first general store in Portland Center. Later competition developed but his store continued to expand. Later he also became interested in several outside interests such as a tavern, a distillery and others which were managed by partners who were usually Klumphs or in-laws.

On December 20, 1820 when he was 24 he married Polly Couch 18 and they had one son, Hiram. She died April 28, 1823 and he remarried the next year at 28 to Eliza Mary Eby 17, and they eventually had ten children, four being born in Portland, three in Illinois and three in Iowa. In 1828 his mother died at 50 and nine years later, 1837, his father died. Thomas then moved to Illinois. The reason is unknown. He was well established in Portland and was becoming prominent in the county. When he sold out and left he was 41, his wife 30, Hiram 14, Henry 8, Joseph 5, Franklin 4 and Mary 1, and they were the last Klumph family to leave Portland and the only Klumph family to move to that part of Illinois.

The nine years of Thomas S., in Drury and Buffalo Prairie townships of Rock Island county Illinois would be suitable for a book except for the ending. Immediately upon his arrival he set out in large scale land speculation buying at bottom 1837 depression prices with small down payments and at the same time became engaged in many other pursuits. He became associated with a group to found Illinois City which they believed would grow from nothing to a very large city. He also became associated with John H. Eby who was probably his wife's brother and with Jacob Coleman whose wife Catherine appears to have been related to Eby's wife Lucindia P., and they organized the Klumph-Eby-Coleman Company in real estate. Thomas and Eby organized the Klumph & Eby Mercantile Company and established the first general store in Illinois City. In addition to all that Thomas became postmaster of Illinois City and justice of peace in the township. Everything progressed beautifully for four years and Thomas became a very wealthy man — on paper — and then it happened. First the real estate company got sued over the legality of their contracts and lost. Also the promotion of Illinois City got into financial trouble and had many cases pending in civil court. Next Thomas's personal speculation of farm lands became overextended due to falling prices. Finally with all hopes gone that Illinois City would grow the people began to leave and the general store began to fail and the need of a postmaster and judge diminished. As partner of those three businesses and because of his own affairs he became involved in lengthy and costly litigation. For the next four years Thomas fought to save what he could of his many forty acre tracts, yet the sheriff seized one after another to satisfy judgments issued by the circuit court. In 1846 the sheriff took the last of the real estate Thomas had and Thomas then 50 moved his family of then eight children and wife to Iowa.

Even though Thomas had lost all of his considerable holdings of real estate and his interests in the two companies and the association, he was not bankrupt. But in Iowa he was no longer wealthy and the important person he had been in the Illinois City area. His ten years in Iowa were confined to making a good living for his large family — no speculation — no promotions. His last three children were born there. He had a store. He financed his older sons to establish their farms in Linn county in southern Monroe township in the area which was then a part of Clinton and Rapids townships. In 1855 his wife died at 48 possibly of childbirth. The next year Thomas died at 60. He was survived by all of his eleven children, Hiram 33, Henry 27, Joseph 24, Franklin 23, (later Sr.), Mary (Mrs. James Carpenter) 20, and at home; Thomas D. 18, Rachel 17 (who married Joseph Rooks two years later), Alonzo 14, John W. 10, Hattie 5 and Lila Eliza 1 (who seventeen years later married Gabriel Carpenter brother of James above). Also surviving was only one grandchild, Edward Carpenter, also his sister Harriet (Mrs. Asa Andrews) 56 (who never left Chautauqua county N.Y.), and by eight Andrews nieces and nephews and a large number of cousins. The younger children were raised by the older ones in various parts of Linn county Iowa.

After Thomas's death five of his seven sons served in the Civil War, four for the North as privates and corporals, and one for the South — Joseph Eby Kl. who had lived in Missouri — as a major and quartermaster. (He was the only Klumph officer in the war and the only Klumph in the Confederate army). He was captured in the battle of Vicksburg by his brother Thomas's outfit. Joseph was paroled and served the balance of the war as a Southern major and quartermaster in charge of transportation for paroled prisoners and freed slaves. He was bonded and handled very large sums issued to him by the Northern army quartermaster but always as a paroled prisoner of war. He was stationed at Mobile Alabama when the war ended and remained there.

Our ancestral father had twelve grandsons who in turn had thirty-one sons. His grandson Thomas S. (head of this sub-branch 8c) held the record with seven sons, also the record of eleven children. However, in the later generations the Klumph name is gradually dying out in this sub-branch, today Thomas's male Klumph-name descendants live in Illinois and Iowa.

4th generation 8c (children of Thomas S.): Hiram Thomas Kl.; Henry A. Kl.; Joseph Eby Kl.; Franklin Leroy Kl. Sr.; Mary Elizabeth Kl. No. 1; Thomas D. Kl.; Rachel Sarah Kl.; Alonzo Riley Kl.; John William Kl.; Harriet "Hattie" Kl. and Lila Eliza Klumph. — 5th gen., (ch. of Hiram): probably none; (ch. of Henry): Geneva "Jennie" Kl., Thomas G. Kl., Samuel Kl., John A. Kl. and Catherine E. Klumph; (ch. of Joseph E.): probably Robert S. Klumph; (ch. of Franklin Sr.): George who died infant, Leora Elda Kl., Franklin Leroy Kl. Jr. and Mary Elizabeth Klumph No. 2; (ch. of Thomas D.): none; (ch. of Alonzo): Cora Maude Kl., Hubert Corus Kl., Olive Kl., Louis Alonzo Kl., Blanche Ethel Kl. and Ollie Isabelle Klumph; (ch. of John W.): none. — 6th gen., (ch. of Thomas G. and Samuel and John A.): probably none; (ch. of Robert S.): Miss XX Kl. and Robert Speer Klumph; (ch. of Franklin Jr.): Harry Dale Kl. Sr. and Helen Mae Klumph; (ch. of Louis): Dorothy Myrtle Kl. and Bernice Ethel Klumph. — 7th gen., (ch. of Robert Speer Kl.): probably none; (ch. of Harry Sr.): Harry Dale Klumph Jr. (b-1928); (ch. of Forest Sr.): Forest Alonzo Klumph Jr. (b-1942). — 8th generation: none yet.

Branch D and Sub-Branched 9d, 10d, 11d, 12d, 13d, 14d & 15d

THOMAS J. KLUMPH

Thomas J., 2nd generation and head of branch D, was the fifth born and the fourth son of our ancestral father John Thomas Klumph No. 1. He was born in 1778 in what is now Springfield township Otsego county N.Y., but was then a part of old Albany county. The Revolution had commenced two years earlier. He was only a few months old when the massacres of Springfield and Cherry Valley occurred and five years old when the peace treaty of the Revolution was signed. Therefore he probably remembered very little of the war and the serious Indian raids. He remained on the original Klumph homestead to help his father until he was 29, which was much more than his own sons were later to do for him. In December 1807 Thomas at 29 married Sarah (Sally) Rice 18, daughter of a neighbor Pelatiah Rice, a Revolution veteran, and nee Mary Dutcher.

Thomas J. brought his bride to Portland township Chautauqua county N.Y. June 1808 where he had purchased 200 acres of land (forest) on lot 41T5. The lot was the second one south of Lake Erie and the NW corner of the township. At first the couple lived with his wife's oldest sister and her husband Benjamin Hutchins and family who had settled on the next part of the same lot in 1806. As soon as Thomas had completed his log cabin they moved to their own property. In 1810 he gave his neighbors permission to build a log school house on his property but it was abandoned after the first year as the settlers found it was not conveniently located. His brother Augustine who had arrived in Portland that year and settled SE of him was the school teacher. In 1811 Thomas' log cabin burned and he moved his family into the abandoned log cabin school house temporarily. It was small, low, with small door in one end and a window of four lights in the side and it had a Dutch fireplace and a hole through the roof of shakes for the smoke.

In 1815 after seven years of creating a 200 acre farm and a small orchard Thomas at 37 sold out at considerable profit. He purchased a tract of undeveloped land on lot 32T4 about three miles to the SE in the more hilly or rolling part of Portland township and located nearer to his brothers and their in-laws all of whom had come to Portland after he did. Here, after spending sixteen years developing the land into an established farm, he at 53 in 1831 again sold out. He and his family then moved to Kingsville township Ashtabula county Ohio where again he purchased undeveloped land to create a farm. This proved more difficult than he anticipated as he was no longer young and his sons were of little assistance. Those at home or nearby became sailors and were only home in the winter time. This land was located in the NE corner of the township near Lake Erie and about five miles west of Conneaut Harbor and about ten miles east of Ashtabula Harbor. The soil was not the best, but he did quite well with it especially so because he was not financially dependent on mass production. He made it into a nice farm and he died there in 1850 at 71. Politically Thomas J. had been a Federalist and in religion a Methodist and he was a Mason as were most of the other Klumphs.

He was survived by his wife 61 (who was to live twenty more years) and by eight of his nine children; Alexis 41, Lester 40, Jacob Sr. 35, John T. 2nd 33, Fayette 31, Doctor 29, Charlotte 25 and Cornelius 18 and twenty Klumph grandchildren: Louisa 17, Almon 15, John T. 3rd 11, Harriet 9, Martha 7, Delos 2; Morton 9, Dorr 3, Ida 1; Lawrence 11, Nathan 9, Stephen 1; Caroline 15, Lester 12, Charity 9, John D. 2, Frances 1; Laura 5, Emmett 4, Clementine 1 (the remaining thirteen of his thirty-three Klumph grandchildren were not yet born). Also surviving Thomas J. was one of his three brothers, Jeremiah 81 and probably all three of his sisters, Mary 75, Elizabeth (Mrs. Vibbard) 70 and Catherine (Mrs. Hall) 63, and many nieces and nephews.

Thomas J. had more sons who married and today has almost as many male Klumph-name descendants as his three brothers combined.

Thomas J's children (3rd generation) were: Alexis C. Kl., (head of sub-branch 9d); Lester R. Kl., (head of sub-branch 10d); Jacob Kl., Sr., (head of sub-branch 11d); John Thomas Kl., No. 2, (head of sub-branch 12d); Fayette J. Kl., (head of sub-branch 13d); Doctor Almon Kl., No. 1, (head of sub-branch 14d); Charity Kl.; Charlotte Kl. and Cornelius C. Klumph Sr., (head of sub-branch 15d).

9d sub-branch head: 3rd generation, ALEXIS C. KLUMPH

Alexis was the oldest son of Thomas J. Klumph and grandson of John Thomas Klumph No. 1. He was born November 6, 1808 in a log cabin in Portland township, Chautauqua county N.Y. He was 7 when his father moved from the NW part of the township to the south central part. When he was about 18 he left home to become a sailor on the Great Lakes. He usually returned home in the winter to Portland and later to Kingsville township, Ashtabula county Ohio when his father moved there in 1831.

Alexis married Sarah Rundels (also spelled Reynolds) Christmas day 1832 in Kingsville township; he 24, she 20, and soon thereafter settled near his father's home. He continued as a sailor for the next eighteen years and thus was only at home in the winter time except for hasty trips home during the shipping season when his ship was in port nearby. He was the first to become a sailor but was soon followed by his brothers Jacob, Doc and Cornelius and still later by his own son Almon P. It is odd no record can be found that Alexis eventually became a captain as did all the others. It was a very hazardous vocation in those days with schooners and the early and often undependable steamers and it was to cause the death of Jacob and Cornelius and many narrow escapes by the others. Sarah, the wife of Alexis, must have found it difficult to manage with her husband away so much. Six of their seven children were born while he was a sailor. But the wives of Jacob and Doc had the same problems and they lived nearby.

His father died Oct. 1850. In 1853 Alexis gave up sailing and moved his family to a 100 acre farm he had purchased in Conneaut township, Crawford county, Pa., SW of Conneautville Pa., and about 30 miles SE of his Kingsville home. At the time he was 45, his wife 41 and his children 20, 18, 14, 12, 10 and 5. His seventh was born eight years later when he was 53 and his wife 49. Alexis was not the first Klumph in the Conneautville area. His brothers Lester and Fayette and his sister Charlotte had arrived two years earlier from Otsego county N.Y. to which they had previously moved from Kingsville Ohio. Also his brother John had once lived in Conneautville before any of them.

About 1857 Alexis' oldest son Almon 22 married Joan Thomas 17 and settled nearby, but as Almon was a sailor (later captain) he was away during the shipping season. About 1858 two of the daughters of Alexis married, the third one Martha never married but later she did not live at home. Louisa at 25 married George Washington Foster 29 and settled in Conneautville and Harriet 17 married Richard Henry Williams 21 and settled nearby. By 1860 still living at home with Alexis and his wife were John then 21, Martha 17 and Delos 13. On February 18, 1861 the seventh child of Alexis (Albert Henry) was born at a time when Alexis already had three grandchildren up to two years old. His son John, single, enlisted in the army and left August 17, 1861 some four months after the Civil War started. Afterwards Delos, then single, also enlisted and after the war returned to Conneautville. But not John. He died of fever at Savage Station Va., July 7, 1862 soon after he had made a successful escape from a Confederate prison camp.

Sometime in the 1860's Alexis was in a farm accident which changed his life. He had been a hard working farmer with a large successful farm, but after the accident he was not able to do as much and gradually less and less. He was finally reduced to twelve acres and an old house and barn and was dependent on the other Klumphs to assist him at farming it and to raise his youngest son. Delos next to youngest was supporting himself as a sailor and later when he was 29 he married Jennie Louise Wilkinson 23 at Springborg Pa., and settled three miles south of there in Conneautville and continued for some time as a sailor. Albert, the youngest son at 20 married Clara Olive Webber 18 at East Springfield, Pa., in 1881 and lived there for a few years. He later became a sailor, for a time.

In 1883 Alexis and his wife applied for and received a Federal pension because of John's death in the Civil War and the government made it retroactive to the day of John's death. This and the help of their children and relatives provided for them and they later moved into the home of his son Almon who had retired from lake captain to farm his 73 acres adjoining Alexis' twelve. Even though Alexis was the oldest of the seven brothers he survived them all. In 1885 when Alexis was 77, Doc the last of his brothers died in Ohio at 64. Alexis continued to live nearly eight years more.

Alexis died suddenly January 10, 1893 at 84 and his wife ten months later at 82. He was survived by six of his children, Louisa then 60, Almon 58, Harriet 52, Martha 50, Delos 45 and Albert 32. And by twelve Klumph grandchildren, William 35, Pearl (male) 23, Claude 19, Bessie 11, Maude 14, Mayme 13, Clarence 12, Thorp (later Sr.) 10, Lynn 8, Lula 5, James 3 and Raymond (later Sr.) 1. Also three Foster and four Williams grandchildren. He was also survived by only two Klumph first cousins, Erastus and Benson, thus Alexis was the third to the last of our ancestral father's twenty-six grandchildren to die. Like so many other sub-branches, all of Alexis' male Klumph descendants today are through only one of his four sons, Delos. Alexis' son Almon had three sons but no grandson. Delos had five sons and two Klumph grandsons and four Klumph great grandsons. (Lynn, a grandson of Alexis, had no children but he adopted a baby son, Ned, who later had two, Debra Dale Kl., and Christopher Lynn Klumph. Those three are not included in the Generation (blood-line) List, but they are included in the Alphabetical list with complete data). The male Klumph name descendants of Alexis today live in Ohio and California.

4th generation 9d (children of Alexis): Louisa A. Kl. No. 2; Almon Perry Kl.; John Thomas Kl., No. 3; Harriet R. Kl.; Martha C. There is yet no 8th generation in this sub-branch as Delos was the next to the youngest of Alexis' sons and thus the ages of the males at this time (Jan. 1960) in the above 7th generation are from 5 to 14. This same situation exists in sub-branches 7b, 11d and 14d.

10d sub-branch head: 3rd generation, LESTER R. KLUMPH

Lester was the second son of Thomas J. Klumph and grandson of John Thomas Klumph No. 1. He was born August 15, 1810 in a log cabin in Portland township, Chautauqua county N.Y. When he was 5 his father moved from the NW part of that township to the south central part. At 17 he became an apprentice blacksmith. When he was about 20 his father moved the family to Kingsville township, Ashtabula county Ohio. Lester helped with the moving but did not remain in Kingsville. After some traveling he finally settled in Springfield Center N.Y., a few miles from where the original Klumph homestead had been and from which the last Klumph had moved away about fourteen years previous.

On November 11, 1832 Lester at 22 married Laura Adelia Slayton 25. Lester had built a blacksmith shop beside the mill stream at Springfield Center and a house next door. Soon he added manufacturing. About 1838 when Lester at 28 already had two employes, his brother Fayette then 19 arrived from Ohio to live with him and to become an apprentice blacksmith. Lester had been married nine years when his first child, Morton, was born in 1841. About 1847 his sister Charlotte, then 21, came from Ohio to live with them and to help Laura, his wife. In spite of the fact he was located in a small village off the main east and west New York highway, Lester did very well indeed. However, some of the relatives of his wife had moved to Conneautville Pa., and area and for some years Lester and wife had been hearing favorable reports. In 1851 he sold out and they moved there too. At that time Lester was 42, his wife 45, his children, Morton 10, Dorr 4 and Ida 2. Fayette 32 and Charlotte 25, both still single, went too. Lester purchased a blacksmith shop there.

When his brother Fayette married a year later it appears Lester sold him his Conneautville residence and Lester moved to a farm in Summerhill township a short distance SE from the village. This farm eventually became one of the best in the area. At first Lester divided his time between farming and blacksmithing, but later he sold the blacksmith shop to Fayette. He enlarged his farm several times and occasionally was engaged in land speculation on a large scale. He was the most consistently successful financially of the seven brothers. Lester became a Colonel in the state militia and at one time or another held many township offices. He belonged to the Universal church.

When Lester was 54 in 1864 during the Civil War, his oldest son Morton 23, married Emma Cooper 19, a native of Conneautville. Morton moved from the farm to Conneautville and for many years owned a grocery store there. Seven years later Ida at 22 married Roy Beatty. In 1872 a family reunion was held in Conneautville by the four surviving of the seven brothers; Alexis, Lester and Fayette of that area and Doc from Ohio. The three other brothers had all died in accidents. Lester was 66 in 1876 when his younger son Dorr at 29 married Lillian Petteys 23 and remained in the area.

Lester died on his farm January 2, 1883, age 72 (six months after his brother Fayette who died at 63). Lester was survived by his widow then 76 (who lived to be 90) and his three children, Morton 42, Dorr 36, Ida (Mrs. Beatty) 34, and four Klumph grandchildren, Clyde 17, Arch 14, Maurice 2, Mary 4 and three Beatty grandchildren. Also surviving were Lester's brothers Alexis 75, Doc 62 and sister Charlotte 58, also many cousins, nieces and nephews. The executor of his estate was Dorr who later purchased the Lester farm. Today the male Klumph descendants of Lester have ended. In fact, although Lester did not know it, his youngest grandson Maurice who was born two years before Lester's death was to be his last Klumph descendant. Many years after Lester's death his granddaughter Mary married Lynne Rupert publisher of the Conneautville newspaper and Lester's three grandsons became Cleveland Ohio business men. One of them, the late Arch Klumph was the genealogist of Lester's sub-branch.

4th generation 10d (children of Lester R Klumph): Morton Kl., Dorr Kl. and Ida Klumph. — 5th gen., (ch. of Morton): Clyde Richard Kl., Arch Cooper Kl. and Maurice Power Klumph; (ch. of Dorr): Mary A. Klumph. — 6th gen., (ch. of Clyde): none; (ch. of Arch): Mary Weideman Kl. and Kathryn Cooper Klumph; (ch. of Maurice): none. (As there were no males in the 6th generation, thus sub-branch ends here).

11d sub-branch head: 3rd generation, JACOB KLUMPH, Sr.

Jacob was the third son of Thomas J. Klumph and grandson of John Thomas Klumph No. 1. He was born 1815 in Portland township, Chautauqua county N.Y. When he was 16 they moved to Kingsville township, Ashtabula county Ohio. Soon thereafter he became a Great Lakes sailor like his brother Alexis and later his brothers Doc and Cornelius. When he was 22 he married Harriet Bugbee 26 at Saybrook, Ashtabula county November 20, 1837 and they settled on a farm in Saybrook township which was his residence and his occupation sailor and later captain for the rest of his life. The location was about fifteen miles west of his father's farm. Jacob's wife ran the farm as he was only home to stay during the winter months.

During the years Jacob Sr., sailed the Great Lakes many changes occurred. At first it was just sailing ships including many very large schooners. Next came the early steamers which were soon replaced by larger and more dependable ones and in addition to the side paddlers there were the propellor type. To distinguish the later type a ship was called the Propeller So-and-so. If a side paddler, it was called the Steamer So-and-so. It must have been a proud day for Jacob Sr., when he became captain of a Propeller. In November 1860 Jacob's brother Cornelius lost his life in a shipwreck and left a widow and baby son Junior. Jacob Sr.'s oldest son Lawrence Rice usually called "Rice" in 1860 an Ashtabula Ohio blacksmith and 21, married Adelia Fish 20. After the death of the widow of Cornelius Sr., "Rice" adopted Cornelius "Neal" Klumph Jr., and later had two children of his own.

In 1861 Jacob Sr., was injured in an accident on board his Propeller in Buffalo N.Y. harbor and was removed to a Buffalo hospital where he died. He was only 46 years old. He was survived by his widow, then 50, five sons; Lawrence Rice 22, Nathan 20, Stephen 12, Jacob Jr., 7 and Thomas P. 6 and his ward Charity 20 (daughter of his brother John). Also surviving was his mother 72 and all but one brother and sister; Alexis 53, Lester 51, John Thomas No. 2 44, Fayette 42, Doc 40, Charlotte 36, also many nieces, nephews and cousins. None of Jacob's six grandchildren were born when he died. On November 20, 1861 the Ashtabula county probate court appointed the widow Harriet administrator of his estate.

Four years after Jacob Sr.'s death his son Nathan, a sailor and 24 married Lydia Boomhower 18 daughter of Peter Boomhower Jr., and nee Caroline M. Fuller and the couple settled on the Boomhower farm in Saybrook township where their three sons were raised. Nathan continued to sail the Lakes like his father before him. (Thirteen years after Nathan's marriage and when he was 37 and his wife 31, his father-in-law at 54 and a widower married Nathan's first cousin Frances Klumph 29, one of his uncle John's daughters, and three children resulted from that marriage. Both families resided harmoniously at the same address).

Jacob Sr., had five sons and four grandsons and it seemed certain it would develop into a large sub-branch. However, the next generation contained only one adult male, but that one,

Perry Stewart Klumph, is carrying the Great Lakes tradition of Jacob into the fourth generation. Today Jacob Sr.'s only two (father and son) Klumph male descendants reside in eastern Michigan.

4th generation, 11d, (children of Jacob Klumph Sr.): Lawrence Rice Kl., Nathan Deloss Kl., Stephen Leroy Kl., Jacob Kl. Jr., and Thomas P. Klumph. — 5th gen., (ch. of Lawrence): Maggie Kl., and Willis E. Klumph; (ch. of Nathan): Guy Adelbert Kl., Almon Peter Kl., and Perry Rice Klumph; (ch. of Stephen): Grace Anna Klumph; (ch. of Jacob Jr. and Thomas): none. — 6th gen., (ch. of Willis): Bonnie Klumph; (ch. of Guy): Howard Lockwood Kl., who died at 9, and Georgia Mildred Klumph; (ch. of Almon): Marguerite Boutwell Kl., and Pauline Klumph; (ch. of Perry R.): Gladys Alverta Kl., Lucille Irene Kl., and Perry Stewart Klumph. — 7th gen., (ch. of Perry S.): Bruce Milton Kl., born 1950, and twins Christy Ann and Cathy Lou Klumph.

12d sub-branch head: 3rd generation, JOHN THOMAS KLUMPH No. 2

John was the fourth son of Thomas J. Klumph and a grandson of John Thomas Klumph No. 1. He was born in Portland township, Chautauqua county N.Y., in 1817. He was 13 when they moved to Kingsville township, Ashtabula county Ohio. Soon thereafter he left his father's farm and was on the move most of the time the rest of his life and it is impossible to trace his life completely. At 17 he married Olive Fox 17 in 1834 when he was an apprentice. Where he learned the machinist and boiler trade is unknown. Later, he became interested in locomotive and marine steam engine construction and repair, and workers in those fields were in great demand at high wages everywhere during his lifetime. This proved advantageous to John who seemed to have the continual urge to travel and to learn new methods. The new field was almost unlimited. He probably made trips as Great Lakes steamer engineer and instructor when the construction companies introduced a new model marine steam engine.

As his family increased it became more difficult for his wife to relocate as fast as John wished, he was often working away from home. Even so, his wife moved so often her five children were born in five localities in three states. Their first child Caroline C., was born January 30, 1835 at Westfield N.Y.; the second one Lester D. in 1838 in Ashtabula Ohio; the third Charity C., in 1841 in Pennsylvania, probably Erie; the fourth John D., in June 1848 at Conneautville, Pa.; and the fifth Frances J., in 1849 in Ohio. John T.'s first wife died in 1849 at age 32 of childbirth, place unknown and she was survived by her husband then 31 and five children at ages of 14, 10, 8, 1 and the baby. Immediately after his wife's death, John distributed his entire family among his and her relatives, presumably as a temporary measure until he remarried, but most of them were full grown before the remarriage took place. He did not reclaim them, not even the two young ones.

The whereabouts of John T., during the eleven years following the death of his first wife is still unknown. The next to be known is he reappeared in Ohio married to a Lydia whose maiden name is unknown, and their first child Frederick was born in Ohio in 1861. Two years later the twins Cordelia and Cornelia were born but the place unknown. The next to be known was in 1867 when John, then 50, was killed in an accident in the railroad shops at Chattanooga, Tenn. His widow and family returned to Ohio where she died a few months later. The three orphans were taken care of by the Klumphs.

John T. was survived by all his eight children. (1) Caroline C. (Mrs. Richard C. Custard) then 32, who had been raised by her grandmother Klumph from the age of 14 and later by Alexis near Conneautville until she married the Conneautville harness maker in 1859 when she was 18, and then her brother John D., at 10 came to live with the couple. (2) Lester D., age 29, a Civil War veteran and bachelor living in Calumet township, Cook county Illinois. He had claimed to have shifted for himself after his mother's death when he was 10. He later raised his half-brother Frederick. (3) Charity C. (Mrs. Cook) 26, who had been raised by her uncle Jacob Klumph Sr., from the age 8 to 18 when she married Phillip Cook, Saybrook blacksmith, age 23. (4) John D., 19, still single and who had probably been raised from 1 to 10 by his mother's relatives and thereafter by his married sister Caroline. Later when John D. was 32 he married Louisa Burnett 28. He lived to be only 56, but she to 90 and she was survived by one son, eight Klumph grandchildren and many great grandchildren. In 1871 when John T.'s estate was finally admitted for probate John D., then 23 was appointed administrator and was bonded by his uncle Doc. (5) Frances J., age 18, still single. It is unknown who raised her from a baby to adult life, probably her mother's relatives. Later at the age of 29 in 1878 she married Peter Boonhower Jr., 54 who was a Saybrook township, Ashtabula county Ohio farmer and father of Mrs. Nathan Deloss Klumph who was two years older than her new step-mother. When the new bride moved into her husband's house her cousin Nathan was living there also with his wife and children and continued to do so. Frances and Mr. Boomhower had three children, one died. When Mr. Boomhower died at 65 he left his widow then 39 with two children, 5 and 2 and he had named Frances the executrix of his estate. She had the nick-name of

"Frank." A year later at 40 she married Arthur A. Button and they moved away. (6) Frederick age 7 who from that age was raised by his half-brother Lester D., a bachelor living in Cook county Illinois. What became of Frederick after that is unknown. (7 and 8) The twins, age 4, Cordelia and Cornelia. It is not known who raised them. Their uncle Doc and his wife had them first and they applied for their adoption as did the twins' half sister Charity and her husband Mr. Cook. Yet three years later the twins were not in the home of either. I have no record that Cordelia married, but Cornelia Whiteman Klumph married Merrick Elry Broughton, Conneaut Ohio meat cutter November 6, 1886 when she was 23. (It is interesting to note included among the children of twin Cornelia were twin sons born in Conneaut in 1899.)

Also surviving John T., in addition to his eight children above were three Custard and two Cook grandchildren. (The remaining Cook grandchildren and the Boomhower, the Broughton and the Klumph grandchildren Clarence and Harry were not born at the time of his death.) John T. was also survived by his mother then 78 and all but three of his brothers and sisters, Alexis 59, Lester 57, Fayette 48, Doc 46 and Charlotte 35, and by many cousins, nieces and nephews. Today the sub-branch (12d) of John Thomas Klumph No. 2 contains thirteen living male Klumphs which is only equaled by sub-branch 7b. All of John T.'s known male Klumph descendants today are via his son John D., and they reside in Pennsylvania and Arizona.

4th generation 12d (children of John Thomas Klumph No. 2): Caroline Corlett Kl., Lester D. Kl., Charity C. Kl., John D. Kl., Frances J. 13d sub-branch head: 3rd generation, FAYETTE J. KLUMPH

Fayette was the fifth son of Thomas J. Klumph and grandson of John Thomas Klumph No. 1. He was born February 6, 1819 in Portland township, Chautauqua county N.Y. on his father's farm, and was eleven when his father moved to Kingsville township Ashtabula county, Ohio. There at 19 he left home desiring to learn blacksmithing from his brother Lester who had moved to Otsego county N.Y. several years previous. Fayette both lived and worked with Lester in Springfield Center N.Y. and after 1851 in Conneautville Pa., until Fayette married. Thereafter he continued to work for Lester and later became manager and still later owner of the blacksmith shop in Conneautville.

At 33 Fayette married Mrs. M. M. Mautor 23, a childless widow whose maiden name was Minnerva Margaret Foster, daughter of George G. Foster and nee Margaret Power whose father Alexander Power had been the founder of Conneautville, Pa. Fayette's three children were born in Conneautville, Adelia 1853, Charles 1856 and John Scott 1866, the latter died 1875 at the age of 9 of diphtheria. When Fayette was 58 his daughter Adelia 24 married Frank O. Dumars 26 in Erie Pa., December 10, 1877 (Four years later she was left a widow with a baby son and she returned to the home of Fayette in Conneautville where she remained). Also when Fayette was 58, his son Charles, 21, married Hattie Wright 20 at Conneautville February 13, 1877. (Two years later Charles resigned as Conneautville railroad station agent and telegraph operator and moved to Bay City Michigan where he took a similar job. He resigned that in 1866 and founded a coal and building material business and soon became one of Bay City's leading business men. Charles died of a stroke when only 41. During the time he lived in Bay City several other Klumph cousins lived there. They were Cyrus Sr. and Jr., George H. and for a few months, Arch Klumph).

Fayette was a life long Democrat and party worker, a Mason, and belonged to the Episcopal church. He died at his residence at Conneautville September 10, 1882 at age 63 (liver). He was survived by his widow, then 54, his daughter Adelia 29, son Charles 26 and one grandson Charles O. Dumars 2. (His only other grandchild, Julia Klumph was not born until two years later.) Also surviving were some of his brothers and a sister, Alexis 74, Lester 71 who died six months later, Doc 61 in nearby Ohio, and Charlotte 57, and many nieces, nephews and cousins.

As his son Charles had no sons, Fayette's male Klumph descendants lasted only one generation after his own. Fayette's widow Minnerva outlived him twenty-seven years and during that time the daughter of Charles was born in Bay City 1884; Charles died 1897 and his widow Hattie 40 and daughter Julia 13 returned to Conneautville where Charles was buried. In 1907

Julia 23 and nurse married Everton Jay Lawrence MD 31 in Conneautville. Minnerva died two years later at 81 and her daughter Adelia (widow of Frank Dumars) was executrix of her estate.

4th generation 13d (children of Fayette J. Klumph): Adelia E. Kl., Charles Hammond Kl., and John Scott Klumph who died age 9. — 5th gen., (ch. of Charles): Julia Frances Klumph. (As there were no males in this generation, this sub-branch ends here).

14d sub-branch head: 3rd generation, DOCTOR ALMON KLUMPH No. 1

Doc was the sixth son of Thomas J. Klumph and grandson of John Thomas Klumph No. 1. He was born in Portland township, Chautauqua county N.Y., February 19, 1821. (This unusual first name confused H. C. Taylor, MD., the historian of that township, so much he finally got all mixed up and recorded Doc as a female Alma Klumph). Doc No. 1 was 10 when his father moved to the northeast corner of Kingsville township, Ashtabula county Ohio, west of Conneaut. There in his teens he became a Great Lakes sailor like his brothers Alexis and Jacob and later Cornelius. This may have been a disappointment to their father as he had use for them on the farm. Doc at the age of 23 married Sally Welch 19, February 27, 1844 in Ashtabula county. He continued to live with his father, where he brought his bride. Also still living at home was his kid brother Cornelius 12 and his sister Charity 21, who died four years later. His brother Alexis and family lived nearby. Six years after Doc's marriage, his father died and the farm went to his mother. Doc and family continued to live there. Two years later Doc's wife died, March 5, 1852, at 28 and was survived by her husband 31 and four children, Laura 7, Emmett 5, Clementine 3 and Sally Ann 1. The latter died six months later at age of eighteen months. After his wife's death his mother 63 cared for the children seventeen months until Doc at 32 married his second wife Irene Adelaide Welch 25, a younger sister of his first wife. During that period Alexis and family had moved away.

Eleven months later his second wife died, childless, and once again Doc's mother looked after his three remaining children and continued to do so for two and a half years until she was 67 when Doc remarried. His first two wives were four and seven years younger and he outlived both. His third wife was three months older and was to outlive him twenty-five years. This marriage was March 27, 1856, in Ashtabula county, both 35, to Anna Matilda Lovejoy. For the third time Doc brought home a bride to his mother's house. Living there at the time besides his mother then 67, was Doc's children, Laura 11, Emmett 9 and Clementine 6, and during the winter months his brother Cornelius 24 then still single. The reason for Doc's living with his mother was certainly not financial, as Doc then was a high paid captain. The reason was probably because he was usually away from home except during the winter. They continued to live there many years and during that time Doc and Anna had two children, Edith and Stacey Dorr. About two years after Doc's third marriage his brother Cornelius brought home a bride, but she did not live there during the summer months until after Cornelius's tragic death two years later. When she died soon after that, Doc would probably have kept Cornelius's baby son, but he himself had five children, whereas his nephew Lawrence Rice Klumph and wife of Ashtabula had none, although they did eventually.

It appears that after the death of Cornelius that Doc's wife and his mother began to pressure him to quit his hazardous career and when Jacob died the following year, the pressure was no doubt greatly increased. Doc served one more season as captain and resigned. He was 41 and normally could have served at least twenty more years as captain, provided he survived the hazards of those times on the Great Lakes. He purchased a nice 122 acre farm including lot 26 in Plymouth township about seventeen miles SW of his mother's Kingsville farm. Ashtabula Creek ran through the NE corner of his new property. The nearest village was Plymouth and a little farther the city of Ashtabula, Ohio. It was an important move for his older children 17, 15, 13 as there they met the people they eventually married. Laura at 19 married Ira Amidon 25 in 1864. Emmett at 20 married Ira's sister Cornelia Amidon 21 in 1866 and the same year Clementine at 17 married Austin W. Rockwell. This greatly reduced Doc's household. By 1870 there remained beside Doc then 49, his third wife Anna and their two children Edith 12 and Stacey Dorr 10 and Doc's mother 80 who had sold her farm when Doc had moved from Kingsville township and had moved with them. She died later in the year 1870. Later at the prompting of neighbors Doc established a small cheese factory but it was soon discontinued, cause unknown, but that business resulted in the only mention of him made in later Ashtabula county history books.

Doc died fifteen years later, March 22, 1885, age 64 (Brights disease). He was survived by his wife Anna then 64; five children, Laura (Mrs. Amidon) 40, Emmett 39, Clementine (Mrs. Rockwell) 36, Edith 27 still single, and Stacey Dorr 24 and two Klumph grandchildren, Ira 16, Doc No. 2 11, and three Amidon and two Rockwell grandchildren. Of his six brothers and two sisters he was only survived by Alexis 77 and Charlotte 60. He was also survived by many nieces, nephews and cousins. His wife lived twenty-five years more and died June 30, 1910 at 89 and many changes had occurred. Her daughter Edith in 1892 at 34 had married Guy W. Sweet. Her son Stacey Dorr (known as Dorr) had married and had been left a childless widower and had remarried in 1901 at 41 to Maggie Jane Randall 23 (who was 80 in 1959). So in addition to the descendants who had survived Doc, Anna was survived by Stacey Dorr's children Mary then 8, Wendell 6 and Alice 3 (Ruth and Arthur born later).

There is a great differentiation of ages in this sub-branch found in no other. This occurred because Doc No. 1 married three times and had children by the first and third wives and because his younger son's marriage which resulted in children did not occur until the son was in his 40's. The result is the descendants of the first marriage in the sixth generation from our ancestral father were older than the preceding fifth generation who were from the second marriage. This brought about odd situations. (Example: I am the great grandson of Doc No. 1 and so is Miles Newell Kl., Robert Wendell Kl. and John Paul Klumph, yet at this time, January 1960, I am 59, Miles 34, Robert 30 and John only 4. This is the normal age range of three generations, but is contained here all in one generation). Today the male Klumph descendants of Doc No. 1 live in Ohio, Michigan and California.

4th generation 14d (children of Doctor Almon Klumph No. 1): Laura Adelia Kl., Emmett Franklin Kl., Clementine Charlotte Kl., Sally Ann Kl., Edith Adele Kl. and Stacey Dorr Klumph. — 5th gen., (ch. of Emmett): Ira Merton Kl., Leroy C. 15d sub-branch head, 3rd generation, CORNELIUS C. KLUMPH, Sr.

Cornelius was the seventh son and ninth child of Thomas J. Klumph and the only grandson of John Thomas Klumph No. 1 to be born outside New York state. He was born in 1832 in the northeast corner of Kingsville township, Ashtabula county Ohio about a year after his father and family had moved there from Chautauqua county N. Y. At the time of his birth his father was 54 and his mother 43. Cornelius became a sailor at the age of 16 in 1849 and advanced rapidly. In the winter of 1858-59 when he was 26 he married Eunice 19 and brought his bride to his mother's home where his brother Doc and family also lived. Their son junior ("Neal") was born January 15, 1860. During the shipping season of 1860 Cornelius for reason unknown did not serve as a captain but instead was first mate on the Dacotah, a propeller type steamship. It was the largest in the fleet owned by a company controlled by a group of railroads. The Dacotah sailed regularly between Buffalo N. Y. and Chicago Ill.

On Friday night November 23, 1860 the Dacotah cleared Buffalo harbor for Milwaukee and Chicago on its last trip of the season, but it developed to be its last trip forever. Without the modern aids and storm warnings of today Captain Cross and his first mate Cornelius Klumph had no knowledge the worst storm of the decade had already struck Lake Michigan foundering and grounding many ships and that the storm would soon sweep the length of Lake Erie. The weather was clear and cold when the Dacotah sailed with its crew of eighteen and six passengers. Accompanying them was the Acme of the same fleet. They were opposite Dunkirk when the blizzard and high waves struck. The Propeller Acme with a less powerful steam engine headed back for Buffalo where it eventually arrived safely. (Six years later it foundered off Dunkirk N. Y.). The Dacotah continued some distance, but the ever increasing intensity of the storm finally drove it back to within eighteen miles of Buffalo, off the mouth of Cattaraugus creek. There on Saturday night the ship was cast into the rocks off shore. A few managed to swim ashore where they promptly froze to death. A family living a quarter mile away reported they had heard shouts for help above the howl of the storm but were afraid to investigate lest they be unable to find their way back to their house in the blinding blizzard. After the storm was over the next day they investigated and found several frozen bodies on the shore including that of Cornelius. The Dacotah disaster had no survivors. A later accounting of the losses on the Great Lakes from that storm revealed twenty-two other vessels were lost with all hands; sixty-seven steam ships and countless schooners were driven ashore but each had at least some survivors. Almon Klumph nearly lost his life in Lake Michigan. The ships of Jacob and Doc Klumph were safely in port. (The following year Jacob was the victim, however at no time since has there been less than one Klumph serving on the Great Lakes).

Cornelius at 28 was survived by his widow 21, his son Cornelius Jr., 10 months, his mother 71, his brothers and sisters Alexis 52, Lester 50, John 43, Fayette 41, Doc 39, Charlotte 35 and many nieces, nephews and cousins. Cornelius was the youngest of seven brothers and the first to die; Alexis the oldest brother was to outlive them all. The widow of Cornelius lived with his mother and Doc and family. The following year she died at 22 leaving Neal an orphan. Doc would have undoubtedly adopted him, but he had five children including a baby, whereas his nephew Lawrence Rice Klumph 23 Ashtabula blacksmith and his wife 22 had none and wanted Neal very much. They raised him as their own. Several years later Lawrence's wife had two children. Neal at 22 married Bessie Brown 22 in 1883 at Oil City, Pa. They had only one child, Willis A born in Oil City the following year. Neal named him after his "brother" Willis E., and soon thereafter Neal moved his family to Lima, Ohio. His son remained with him until 1909 when the son at 25, single, left home and disappeared. It was believed he died soon after. In 1920 when Neal at 59 and his wife 60 both died in Lima. His "brother" Willis E. came from Texas for the funeral and he was appointed by the court to settle Neal's estate. To do this it was necessary to have the son Willis A. declared legally dead. As Willis A. was the last descendant of Cornelius Sr., this sub-branch ended in 1927 the year Willis A. was declared legally dead.

4th generation 15d (children of Cornelius C. Klumph Sr.): Cornelius C. Klumph Jr. — 5th gen., (ch. of Jr.): Willis A. Klumph. — 6th gen., (ch. of Willis A.): none. Therefore this sub-branch ends here.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF KLUMPHS

Of The Living And Deceased; Including The Wives Of Klumphs

Explanation

Leaders (.....) represent information I lack. The addresses of minor children are omitted intentionally, and so are the addresses of wives at home. The individual data is concluded with the key to the generation—branch—sub-branch list. The generation shown is not the generation of the branch but the generation from John Thomas Klumph No. 1, our ancestral father.

In reference to the data on wives which reads "Mother of children above" see the names of the children in her husband's data immediately above. If it reads "Mother of first two children above" you will find a second wife immediately below which for example may say "Mother of all children above except first two." In reference to the No. 1; etc., as in "2nd Mrs. Doctor Almon Klumph No. 1", the figure at the beginning represents which wife she was, and the figure at the end represents which Doctor Klumph he was, therefore "Mrs. Doctor Almon Klumph No. 2" represents which Doctor Klumph he was and that he had only one wife, as no figure precedes Mrs."

In the Klumph fathers' data the married names of daughters are omitted as the daughters are listed individually elsewhere in this Alphabetical List by maiden Klumph names which includes their married names and all of their genealogical data.

From the above it is seen that the total number of specimens is 1000 and the number of specimens of each species is as follows:

Species 1: 100
Species 2: 200
Species 3: 300
Species 4: 400
Species 5: 500

The above data is used to calculate the mean number of specimens per species and the standard deviation of the number of specimens per species.

The mean number of specimens per species is calculated as follows:
$$\bar{x} = \frac{100 + 200 + 300 + 400 + 500}{5} = 300$$

The standard deviation of the number of specimens per species is calculated as follows:
$$s = \sqrt{\frac{100^2 + 200^2 + 300^2 + 400^2 + 500^2}{5} - 300^2}$$

The above calculations show that the mean number of specimens per species is 300 and the standard deviation of the number of specimens per species is 100.

Continuance Odds

What are the odds the Klumph name will continue?

This is largely a matter of personal opinion. But heretofore one had little information beyond their immediate family or beyond their sub-branch to form the basis of an opinion of the whole. For those interested I have compiled two charts which may help. Others may find one or both of these charts interesting for other reasons.

The first is our Birth Ratio Chart. As everyone knows, the only possibility of the continuance of the Klumph name is through Klumph males. Therefore the higher the ratio of females the less the odds the family name will continue. You will notice on this Ratio Chart that the third generation consisted of 17 male and 9 female births. At that ratio the future of the Klumph name seemed fabulous. Yet three generations later, the 6th, this had suddenly reversed to 25 male vs 37 female births and the odds dropped to their lowest point. However, the 8th generation so far with 8 male vs 5 female births indicates more hopeful odds, BUT it is still too early to know as five sub-branches (7b, 8c, 9d, 11d and 14d) have not yet arrived into that generation. The 6th and 7th generations are also not complete as more births are still possible, especially the 7th. The all-time grand total of 152 male vs 137 female births looks favorable, or at least a little above normal. The ardent ratio- and odds-fans will probably claim it is very favorable, or even extremely so.

Of the sub-branches shown three have died out, namely 10d, 13d and 15d. Yet the preceding generation on this chart does not indicate a sudden termination. In fact 10d actually appeared very favorable except for a mere superstition, and that of course does not appear in the chart. Three times in Klumph history a father has had three sons and no daughters and in two cases it resulted in no grandson. 10d was one of them. (The female birth shown was the daughter of another father in that sub-branch). 13d and 15d looked reasonably safe but there were other factors involved which the chart does not reveal. It is therefore necessary to compare both charts before making a guess of the future. Actually sub-branch 2a died out three generations ago when the father changed his name because at the time, I understand, he thought he was the last Klumph, but they are inserted here to arrive at the birth ratio of the whole Family.

The figures by generations of sub-branches reveal many interesting things. Note that 1a, 3b and 14d have endured in spite of unfavorable odds. In the 6th generation 7b and 8c both had the same reversal but 7b's recovery was amazing and now is currently with 12d as leaders. The record in favorable odds was held by 11d in the 4th generation, yet what happened after that is clear on the chart. The chart also reveals what happened to the yesteryear powerhouse 8c. The ratio of 9 d has been consistently good.

All blood Klumphs are represented on this Ratio Chart somewhere and of course in the totals. Can you find the figure which would be one less were it not for your birth? (If not, turn to your name in the Klumph Alphabetical List section. Notice your generation and sub-branch at the end of data; then back to this chart and there you have it.)

I personally believe this Ratio Chart indicates a continuance of the Klumph name for many many generations into the future, but not at the fast expansion rate of the 3rd generation. Of course some of the sub-branches or even a branch may die out. It is interesting to note on this chart that our ancestral father has had 288 Klumph name descendants so far (151 males, 137 females), and that number does not of course include the wives of Klumphs, even those who made this possible.

It is my guess our ancestral father has had so far about 1272 non-Klumph-name descendants. Adding the 288 to 1272 we have 1560 which would be quite a record for 197 years. You may wonder about my 1272 guess, which is more than four times the 288. The reason is his Klumph name descendants are restricted to those born with the Klumph name, whereas his non-Klumph name ones through Klumph females are not restricted to their married names or any other name. It is difficult to realize the result this difference can make. Perhaps a simple hypothetical situation would help. Suppose X today had only one son and one daughter and all of his future descendants of both sex were to also have exactly one son and one daughter. The result: over a period of seven generations X would have accumulated 126 descendants. (The second generation 2 then 4-8-16-32-64 which totals 126). Of those through his son he would have only 12 born with the X family name but through his son's female descendants and their descendants of both sex X would have 51 with 15 other family names. Add that 51 to X's daughter's 63 of 16 family names, none of which are X's family name and you have a total of 114 with 31 other family names. Comparing the figure 12 to 114 X would have about ten times as many non-X-family-name descendants as X family name ones. This is a ratio of 10 to 1. How come X has only 12 X name descendants and our ancestral father 288? X had only one son, one grandson, one great grandson, etc., with the X name, whereas our ancestral father, see chart 1, had four sons, 17 grandsons and 32 great grandsons etc., with the Klumph name. X was out-classed from the start. How come the ratio of X is 10 to 1 and I figure ours at only about 4 to 1 or 1272? Well now that the 4 to 1 ratio no longer seems so fantastic let me say the 1272 is the very minimum possible. I don't know how much higher it should be, but I believe not more than a few hundred. The 1272 is not entirely an estimate. I have considerable non-Klumph-name data.

The 289 Klumph births represented on the Ratio Chart are all American born except for our ancestral father. It is likely his other descendants were too.

The use of the Birth Ratio Chart as a crystal ball is not enough, but it does have its usefulness. The second chart, the ages of the living males, is equally or even more important in estimating the odds of the continuance of the Family name.

*Blood line and excludes sub-branch 2a due to name change. Otherwise total would have been 61, and corresponding changes in age groups. The 56 total by branches: A 4; B 20; C 5; D 27.

I believe this chart of the living males indicates the possibilities of the continuance of the Klumph name blood line in the following order: sub-branch 1a, fair; 3b, fair plus; 7b, excellent; 8c, fair; 9d, excellent; 11d, fair; 12d, excellent; 14d, good; the family as a whole, good plus. Your interpretation is probably different. If you stick around for another hundred years or so you can prove where I guessed wrong. However, those of future generations will know. Of course atomic warfare would effect the above predictions but due to the wide geographic distribution of Klumphs the entire Family would not be destroyed.

The per cent column looks especially favorable with 41% under 21. The total of 56 living male Klumphs is nearly double that of other-name Families which originated from one "immigrant" arriving between 1750 and 1770 according to a limited number of "spot checks" I have made. You may want to investigate and make some comparisons of your own.

Remember this chart is of January 1, 1960 only. Those now on the under 21 line, if they continue to live, will eventually drop down to the second line. Those now on the second will drop to the third and eventually drop off the chart. Therefore without replacements on the first line the whole thing would eventually be erased away. There is no present indication this will occur.

The chart shows three males over 51 in 8c. One of those is Franklin Jr., who is presently the oldest living male Klumph and he will be 86 May 18, 1960. (Incidentally both of his sisters were living when this was written. The older one, Leora, will be 90 July 14, 1960 and is the second oldest Klumph female. The oldest is Annie who will be 90 three months earlier, April 5, 1960. The oldest widow of a Klumph is Mrs. Alfred A. Klumph. She will be 90 August 6, 1960. None of them have yet broken any established records. The original male record of 89 at death was established by our ancestral father. That was broken in 1897 by Benson, one of his grandsons, with 93 years which is still unbroken. The female record of 92 years and 3 months was established in 1955 by Jenette. It is interesting to note that Annie above and Jenette were sisters and that Benson was their grandfather and that from the first male to Benson to the sisters is a skip-generation pattern. The record of a Klumph widow of 91 years 2 months was established in 1935 by Mrs. Alonzo R. Klumph. It appears to me that we have some likely candidates to establish some new records). The youngest male Klumph on this January 1, 1960 chart is Scot born October 20, 1959. (The youngest female reported is Diane born April 20, 1958).

I hope those interested in the name continuance odds have found this new section helpful.

GEOGRAPHIC INDEX

Names of ADULT living Klumphs arranged by location

According to the addresses to be found in the Klumph Alphabetical List section herein, the living Klumph adults and the widows of Klumphs reside in forty-eight localities in sixteen states on January 1, 1960. The purpose of this index is to present a "picture" of the present location of them as individuals and as sub-branches. Of course this is just an index, but it provides the means to look up easily more detailed information in the Klumph Alphabetical List.

The female Klumphs in this index are shown with their maiden names only, just as they appear in the Klumph Alphabetical List which gives their married name if any and the rest of their genealogical data. The individual in this index may not actually live in the city limits of the locality shown here, but instead in a suburb thereof which has its own post office. Or the individual may live on a farm miles away. Those on farms may be listed in the telephone book of one locality but their rural route post office a different locality maybe over twenty miles away. In such cases known to me I have listed the localities of the telephone book in this index and the mailing address in the Klumph Alphabetical List. Omitted in the index are the names of Klumphs under twenty-one at home or away to school or college as their official addresses are the same as the adults and therefore their addresses are not contained in the Klumph Alphabetical List. That List also does not contain the addresses of descendants of female Klumphs so their names are also omitted from this index. Included is the generations and sub-branches. This reveals some localities have a mixture of sub-branches whereas others or even whole states are exclusively of one sub-branch. Remember a list of addresses become obsolete rapidly. Many of the living have previously lived elsewhere in many localities in many states. In fact at one time or another practically every state in this country contained at least one Klumph.

The abbreviations used in this index are Kl for Klumph, H for husband, g for generation. In three cases I have also used Kl for Klump(h). The abcd used in sub-branches are not abbreviations but preceded by figures constitutes the symbol or name of the various sub-branches; however those letters do indicate to which branch the sub-branch belongs. When the wife's name appears in this index instead of the husband it indicates she is a widow. Let us pick perhaps the oldest one for an example: Mrs. Alfred Augustus Kl., (H4g7b); this means she is the widow of Alfred Augustus Klumph and that her husband was in the fourth generation from our ancestral father in the Klumph blood-line and that he belonged to sub-branch 7b and branch B. For another example let's pick Arkansas, Berryville, Helen Mae Kl., 6g8c, the first is her Klumph maiden name, the last part she is in the sixth generation from our ancestral father in the Klumph blood-line and belongs of sub-branch 8c and branch C, any more information about her would be in the Klumph Alphabetical List (under H) Helen Mae Klumph.

INDEX OF NON-KLUMPH NAMES

Living and Deceased

This is an index of the non-Klumph names mentioned somewhere in the individual Klumph data in the Klumph Alphabetical List. To find how any of these names are connected to the Klumphs, first locate the non-Klumph name in this Index; then notice the Klumph name that follows after the em dash. Turn to that Klumph name in the Klumph Alphabetical List. There you will find in the case of a female Klumph that the non-Klumph names are her children arranged alphabetically, or her married name or it may be the married name of one of her daughters, but you won't know until you look. If the Klumph name is a wife and you look up her name in the Klumph Alphabetical List immediately after her husband you may find the non-Klumph name is her maiden name or her father's name or it may be her mother's maiden name. Therefore use this Index ONLY as a reference to the Klumph Alphabetical List. Also remember this Index contains the non-Klumph names of both living and deceased and some of these may have died as much as two hundred years ago.

The purpose of this Index is merely to provide an easy way to find any non-Klumph name mentioned anywhere in the Klumph Alphabetical List section. It contains no genealogical data on the non-Klumphs except for a few notes in this Index. This Index is a new feature. Several things prompted this. One was the Klumphs in Conneaut said the Sanders family had some connection to the Klumph family but they did not know exactly how. Now they will be able to look up Sanders in this index. Here they will find a Mrs. William Sanders was connected somehow to Harriet R. Klumph. Turning to the Klumph Alphabetical List they will find among the complete genealogical data of Harriet that William Sanders was one of her sons-in-law, the husband of her daughter Edith. Other Klumphs elsewhere have wondered how some of the other non-Klumphs connect. Also this Index will make it easier for non-Klumph descendants of our ancestral father to find where they connect into the "Klumph tree."

A few grandchildren of female Klumphs have been very helpful in supplying genealogical data on their deceased grandmothers. In appreciation I have included the names of those grandchildren in this index.

Abbreviation used in this Index is Kl. for Klumph.

Closing Notes

Some Klumphs have suggested listing the causes of death and ages to aid the medical records of the living. This does not appear to me to be worth the effort due to the changes in medical practices and terms over the years. I am not aware of any insanity in the blood-lineage. Strokes and accidents seem to be among the major causes of Klumph deaths. Epidemic deaths and fatal heart attacks seem to be comparatively few. The average age at death of the family as a whole would appear meaningless when one considers that the averages vary widely from one sub-branch to another. No Klumph has yet reached 100, but several have passed the 90 mark.

I have intentionally refrained from individual listing of religion, education, occupation and financial status of the living as those things do not appear to be in keeping with the spirit of this genealogy. However the living male Klumphs as a whole are almost entirely protestant; education, above average; occupations, workers, farmers, bosses and professional people; and financially none poor none rich, ranging from just getting by to almost comfortable well off. The deceased male Klumphs fit into about the same pattern. A large percent of them were Masons.

Naturally there are far more people in this country who have some American Klumph lineage than there are name-Klumphs. Some of them in the future may seek information of that lineage. Several librarians and historians have suggested that I send them a copy of this genealogy for their libraries. I am glad to do so because I feel you would approve and because of the assistance these same librarians and historians have given me. This means, of course, that the names and addresses herein may be accessible to the general public. We hope no one will use it to compile a "sucker list" or a "promotion list" but we must caution you to beware. Please notify me immediately of any such attempt.

As a hobby I have derived considerable pleasure in compiling and publishing this genealogy. Hope you will enjoy it. And hope you will save your copy. Previous Klumph Family genealogists have compiled parts of the family genealogy but they failed to publish it and their records became lost after their death. This printed genealogy with its wide geographic distribution will not be lost.
